We Want Blood
Imagination's Power
Government Take All
Loaves and Fishes Miracle

By ARTHUR BRISBANE
(Copyright, 1934, King Features Synd.)

NATIONAL GUARDSMEN are still pursuing strikers in Ohio. Two men killed, a good many wounded, citizens not concerned with the strike or the fight driven from the dangerous strike area by soldiers with fixed bayonets. Strikers enraged by the death of their comrades, hurled bricks and bottles at the soldiers, crying out, according to reporters, "we want blood."

Soldiers, in what is real war against the men on strike, carry with them repeating rifles, machine-guns, guns that throw bombs and tear gas. The soldiers are equipped with gas masks, so that they can use the tear gas against the strikers without breathing it themselves or having it get into their eyes.

The strikers believe they are in the right, the soldiers obey orders, but it all comes unpleasantly near to real war. And it suggests that government may be compelled to do something about strikes, in the way of arbitration, in spite of the fact that organized labor objects to arbitration for two reasons:

First, because it would diminish the importance of organized labor leaders, and, second, because those leaders do not trust the fairness of the government or that of the arbitrators that might be selected.

Ordinarily it is desirable to let labor leaders, and others manage their business in their own way, but if it is a question of war, and death, and the right of citizens generally to peace and safety, something will have to be done.

WILLIAM A. ROBINSON, American explorer, was critically ill on the Galapagos Islands, far out in the ocean where giant turtles live six or seven hundred years and longer, growing big enough to carry two men on their backs. A man ill and alone in such surroundings stimulates the imagination, so airplanes were sent and finally a destroyer of the United States navy brought doctors that removed Mr. Robinson's appendix and took him to a hospital on the mainland.

This shows that to attract attention, you must stir the imagination.

ON SHORE, among millions of others, Mr. Robinson's plight would have attracted no airplane or destroyer. The late Nathan Straus, who protected children of this and other countries by fighting the sale of poisonous impure milk, used to say, "If a man named Madison Square Garden in New York and announced that at a certain time he would publicly kill one child, he would be torn to pieces. The same man can start a milk company, kill thousands of children with milk poisoned by deadly germs and attract no attention."

INVENTOR DIES AT BATON ROUGE HOME

BATON ROUGE, La., May 26.—(P)—Louis Link, 68, former general superintendent for the Standard Oil company of Louisiana and widely known in oil refining circles as the inventor of the Link oil cracking process, died at his home here today after an illness of several months.

He had retired from active business about three years ago. A veteran executive in the Standard Oil organization, he was the inventor of numerous oil refining inventions in addition to his cracking process.

He was a native of Bavaria, and had made his home in Baton Rouge since 1911. His widow, the former Amelia Buege, and a daughter, Mrs. Karl Hein, both of Baton Rouge, and a brother and three sisters living in Bavaria, survive.

Funeral arrangements had not been announced late today.

JAPAN READY TO QUIT NAVY CLAIMS

(Copyright, 1934, by the Associated Press)
TOKYO, May 26.—Japan, fearing an Anglo-American combine at the 1935 naval conference, is ready, it was indicated today, to abandon any claims to naval parity with the United States and Great Britain.

These claims never have been enunciated by responsible officials. They have been hinted so strongly, however, that most observers had come to anticipate a vigorous demand for parity.

Instead, it was inferred by some officials and in editorial comment, the empire now is willing to forego parity claims provided Japan is given a higher rate and theoretical equality.

Tokyo leaders have repeatedly emphasized their determination to oppose maintenance of the present 5-5-3 treaty naval ratios among the United States, Britain and Japan.

Conferring of diplomas will be by Father Robert H. De Vries.

PARKER FUNERAL MARKS CLOSE OF REIGN OF TERROR

MOTHER HYSTERICAL

Bonnie's Sister, Under Heavy Guard, Allowed To View Body

DALLAS, Texas, May 26.—(P)—The reign of terror of Clyde Barrow and Bonnie Parker as the southwest's worst killers in a generation ended today as the grave closed over Bonnie, 23-year-old, red-haired, machine-gunning "moll."

Neighbors from west Dallas who had known Bonnie since childhood tramped weeds and graves in the old Fishtrap cemetery to witness the last rites, which were accompanied by the hum of newsreel cameras.

Floral wreaths included one sent by the Barrow family, which buried the outlaw Clyde yesterday in cemetery a mile away, beside the grave of his brother, Buck, killed a year ago in a gun fight with officers at Dexter, Iowa.

The Rev. Clifford Andrews, after reading the 90th psalm, spoke today of Bonnie as he had at the Barrow funeral, saying he "loved Bonnie, because God loved her."

"From what I have heard," he said, "I am sure that deep down in her heart, this young lady had a yearning for a better life."

Even as he spoke, the funeral group was guarded from disorder by police men who had spent weary hours searching for Bonnie and her killer companion whose career marked a trail of death among peace officers across the middle west.

Only about a hundred of Bonnie's relatives and friends attended private services at a funeral chapel. Police lines held in check a crowd of several hundred which milled around the outside.

Billie Mace, 21-year-old sister of Bonnie, fainted when she saw her body, for the first time in many weeks. Billie came to Dallas under

West Monroe Student Injured As Cars Crash At Street Intersection

Suffering from severe cuts and bruises about the face and head, Fred Cook, 17, of West Monroe, member of the senior class of Ouachita parish high school, was a patient at a local hospital last night after the automobile in which he was riding collided with another car, driven by Lora Cotton, 318 Walnut street, at the intersection of North Fourth street and Brea avenue. The accident occurred at 9:40 p. m.

Cook, whose injuries were not thought to be serious, was a passenger in an automobile driven by Harvey Gregg of Sterling.

According to reports of the accident filed at police headquarters, Cotton was driving east on Brea avenue and Gregg was driving north on North Fourth street. Since the latter street is a right-of-way thoroughfare, Cotton claims he stopped at the intersection and, he said, believing he had ample time to cross the intersection before the other car arrived, started across North Fourth and was almost clear when the Gregg car collided with his.

The impact of the collision was so great both cars were overturned on the lawn of the home of John Colons, at the corner of Brea and North Fourth. Both automobiles were considerably damaged and it was necessary to tow them to a garage.

Young Cook, bleeding profusely from gashes about the face, was carried to the hospital in an ambulance. He was the only one injured.

MAN THOUGHT SLAIN IN KIDNAP MISTAKE

MEXIA, Texas, May 26.—(P)—Six men were held for questioning today into the death of John L. Adams, 50, a dairyman, believed by officers to have been slain by kidnappers who had mistaken him for a wealthy neighbor. Sheriff Will Adams, and Red Burton, a former Texas Ranger, said one of the six suspects had failed to give satisfactory answers concerning his activities the night before Adams was killed and his body thrown in a water tank a mile from his home near Goresbeck, Texas.

Belief that Adams was slain by kidnappers was based on a sardonic note received by Dwayne Adams, son of the slain man. It said:

"Your old man is safe—excuse us, we got the wrong man."

Officers believe the dairyman was mistaken for a wealthy neighbor, Joe Morris, and that he was slain to ease the identity of his captors.

Adams' body was found yesterday. He had been shot in the head. There was a gag in the mouth and a belt drawn tightly about the throat.

MILITARY MASS WILL BE HELD AT NOON TODAY

Bishop Desmond To Preach After Ceremony At Legion Home

Full preparations have been completed for the military mass to be held today at noon at the American Legion home, it was announced Saturday. This is expected to be one of the most impressive celebrations ever held in Monroe, and it is anticipated that thousands of people, both of Catholic and non-Catholic faith, will be present to witness it.

This is said to be the first time a military mass has ever been held in Monroe and it will be the first opportunity many residences of Monroe have ever had to witness such a spectacle.

A circumstance of unusual importance in connection with the mass will be the appearance here of the Most Rev. Daniel F. Desmond, bishop of the Alexandria diocese. Bishop Desmond will deliver a sermon following the mass.

Opening ceremonies in connection with the event will begin shortly before noon, in order that the mass proper may start by noon, as a mass cannot be said in the afternoon. The church procession will form at the intersection of Fourth and M streets and will proceed from there to the altar, which was erected Saturday on the south porch of the American Legion home.

In addition to the priests, the procession will include color bearers and standard bearers, a color guard composed of four soldiers and the two drummers and two buglers who will take part in the mass, and the

KILLS 3 PERSONS, THEN SHOOTSELF

RAMSEY, Ill., May 26.—(P)—Enraged when a young farmer called to marry his housekeeper's daughter, Miss Rose Harris, 17, a graduate of the Ramsey high school.

Mrs. Myrtle Harris, 40, Hayes' housekeeper for ten years and mother of Rosie.

William Roberts, 60, a farmer living near the Hayes home.

Henry Spire, a farmer living in the neighborhood, who was to have married Rose Harris at 10 a. m., today at Vandalia, escaped by dodging behind his automobile.

When Spire arrived to take the girl to Vandalia to become his bride, Hayes got a shotgun, and Mrs. Harris, her daughter and Spire fled to the nearby Roberts farm. Roberts was working in a field.

SAYS BILLIE MACE SHOT AT OFFICERS

FORT WORTH, May 26.—(P)—William Sheffer, farmer, stood up in criminal district court today and pointed out Billie Mace, 21, as the woman he saw shoot at Highway Patrolmen E. B. Wheeler and H. D. Murphy on Easter Sunday near Grapevine, Texas.

"That's the lady right there, absolutely," he said. "I saw her on the spot."

The court room was jammed for the habeas corpus hearing for Mrs. Mace as her attorneys battled to obtain her release on bond so she could attend the funeral of her sister, Bonnie Parker, in Dallas. She was attractively attired in a gray woolen coat suit and remained impassive as Sheffer identified her.

Mrs. Mace and Floyd Hamilton, brother of Raymond Hamilton, have been charged with the murder of Murphy and Wheeler. No indictment has been returned yet.

BLAST KILLS SIX

ALICANTE, Spain, May 26.—(P)—A devastating explosion in a fireworks factory here tonight killed six persons and injured 28 others, some of whom are not expected to recover. Searchers were combing the ruins in the belief that other bodies may be recovered.

SCHEDULE RANGE OF INCOME TAX BILL ANNOUNCED

TEXT IS MADE PUBLIC

School Finance Revision Measures Are Set For Hearing

BATON ROUGE, La., May 26.—(P)—Announcement that the Louisiana tax reform commission's income tax bill will carry a 2 to 84 per cent schedule range, and the setting of the commission's school finance revision bills for public hearing today stirred the otherwise quiet waters of weekend legislative adjournment.

Text of the voluminous, income tax bill on which the commission has been at work for weeks, was released by Senator A. C. Gardiner, of Church Point, commission member.

Its 83 pages set forth a range of levies on incomes ranging from $1,000 to $1,000,000 and above, with $1,000 exemption for unmarried persons, and $2,500 for married persons. Exemption of $400 would be allowed for each dependent.

The state income levy measure is patterned after the federal statute. At the same time Senator Gardiner announced that Louisiana school officials, parents of school children, and taxpayers and citizens in general have been called into clinical consultation regarding the tax reform commission's proposed cures for the state's school finance ills.

The senator, who is steering the educational finance reconstruction phase of the commission's "tax relief" program in the legislature, said the senate education committee of which he is chairman had set a hearing for May 31 at 2 p. m. on the commission four school bills.

The commission's measure would include federal income taxes and miscellaneous taxes among exemptions.

The governor would be authorized to appoint a committee of revenue as chief administrator. A board of tax appeals before whom appeals from the commissioner's decisions could be filed would be created, and provision would be made for deduction of $300,000 annually from first proceeds to defray collection costs.

The term of the first commission would be named would begin January 1, 1935 and continue for 30 months. Successive terms would be for four years. State senate appointment confirmation would be necessary, and annual salary of $7,500 a year with bond of $100,000 is provided.

The commissioner could be removed for "inefficiency, neglect of duty, but for no other reason" under the bill.

The levy on normal individual incomes would scale upward to 25 per cent on such incomes in excess of $10,000. An individual surtax of 4 per cent would be levied on incomes of

SICK ADVENTURER'S CONDITION BETTER

COLON, Panama, May 26.—(P)—Steadily improving in condition, William Albert Robinson, millionaire adventurer who was stricken with appendicitis during a South sea island honeymoon voyage, was approaching the canal zone tonight in the United States destroyer, Hale.

The little vessel, sent to Robinson's aid along with two naval planes, was expected to reach Balboa by 6 a. m., Sunday.

Administration Fears Forthcoming Contest In Legislative Fight

Coming Week Will Demonstrate Control Of Power At State Capital

(Special Dispatch from News-Star—World Legislative Bureau)

BATON ROUGE, May 26.—The second week of the final biennial session of the present legislature was no more profitable to the citizen and taxpayer than the first. Little of real value was accomplished. While 176 measures were introduced during the week, against 109 for the previous seven-day period, less than a dozen got beyond the committee barrier.

The absence of constructive leadership in the legislature on the side of the administration is being keenly felt at Baton Rouge.

Politically, the legislature seems to be moving steadily forward toward wholesome division in the public interest. If there is any legislative development predictable at this time, it is that the very thin balance of power in favor of the Long-Allen

SCHOOL SERMONS SLATED HERE FOR 4 INSTITUTIONS

This Week Will Bring To A Close Nearly All Activities

This week will bring to an end practically all school activities in Ouachita parish for the 1933-34 term. Only the baccalaureate sermon and commencement exercises at Ouachita parish junior college will remain for the first two days of next week.

In Monroe's three other higher educational institutions—Ouachita parish high school, Neville high school and St. Matthew's parochial high school—the week will bring one of the major events: the educational lives of the students. They will receive diplomas entitling them to enter higher institutions of learning.

And to the many parish, city and Catholic elementary schools, this week also bears special significance. For the students in the highest grades at these schools it will mean that they are ready to pass on to high schools. For those not yet at the top in their respective schools it will mean the beginning of a summer vacation season, a season in which they will have time to "get up steam" for the new grades they will enter in the fall.

Announcement was made Friday by C. C. Colvert, president of Ouachita parish junior college, that Dr. A. L. Crabbe, president of George Peabody college at Nashville, Tenn., will deliver the commencement address to the college students. Commencement exercises will be held at 10 a. m., June 4.

The baccalaureate sermon will be delivered at the college auditorium at 3 o'clock in the afternoon of June 3. About 75 students will receive diplomas. Edward Reeves and Charissa Davis were named as honor students.

More than 200 seniors of Ouachita parish high school will receive diplomas at graduation exercises to be held Friday night at 8:15 o'clock at Neville high school auditorium. Dr. Angie Smith, pastor of the First Methodist church at Shreveport and former president of Centenary college at Shreveport will be the principal speaker.

Among the graduates of this school, Elaine Roster won first honors and Marie Winkler second honors.

The baccalaureate sermon will be delivered this afternoon at 3 o'clock

CHILD TO BE BORN TO CROWN PRINCESS

ROME, May 26.—(P)—Italy thrilled today by the glad official tidings that Crown Princess Marie Jose will present King Victor Emanuel and Queen Elena with a grandchild, who, if a boy, may one day be king of Italy.

The announcement was made in the form of a communique from Duke Boreo Dolmo, 102-year-old prefect of the royal palace, to the president of the chamber of deputies, Count Ciano.

It said the child would be born in about five months. The same tidings were to be conveyed to the senate. Marie Jose will be 28 on August 4.

Italy, which has been waiting for several years for this announcement, rejoiced unrestrainedly today. This kingdom has, in fact, become impatient. Crown Prince Humbert and Princess Marie, daughter of the late King Albert of Belgium were married January 8, 1930.

War Veterans To Hold Joint Memorial Rites

Joint memorial services will be held by Rodney J. Hobbs post, Veterans of Foreign wars, and the auxiliary this afternoon at 3 o'clock at the veterans' burial plot in Riverview Burial park. This is an annual affair and the regular ritualistic program of the two organizations will be given.

All other veterans' organizations, including the American Legion, United Spanish war veterans and others, are invited to attend.

Volley Fired As Crowd Tries To Prevent Arrest Of Man

NOBODY IS INJURED

Trucks Roll Merrily At Minneapolis As Walk-out Is Ended

(By Associated Press)
TOLEDO, Ohio.—Rifles cracked around the Electric Auto-Lite plant again yesterday, snapping a powder-charged peace which had prevailed during much of the day, but no one was injured. The volley was fired over the heads of a crowd of 1,500 which tried to prevent soldiers arresting a man, said to be intoxicated and trying to make a speech.

Peace had prevailed for a time following the wounding by snipers of a national guard lieutenant and a spectator.

In the lull of active hostilities there was heard a growing murmur from the ranks of union labor of an immediate general strike in Toledo, and troops in the siege area were put on the alert against incendiarism. One man was arrested on an arson charge after two houses and a box car were fired with oily waste.

Two men have been killed and 200 hurt in five days.

MINNEAPOLIS.—Loaded trucks and cars rolled merrily over the twin cities streets yesterday for the first time since the drivers began an 11-day strike, marked by the death of one and injuries of 100.

Peace terms require strikers and employers to accept as final an agreement to be drawn by seven arbitrators selected by the regional labor board.

INDIANAPOLIS.—A strike of 700 to 1,000 workers at the Real Silk Hosiery mills was settled today by an agreement signed at New York. The terms gave recognition to the Employees Mutual Benefit association, but failed to mention the hosiery workers union, closed shop, union wage scale or other demands made when the strike began April 6.

Central Savings Joins Move To 'Renovize' The Twin Cities

The Central Savings Bank and Trust company was added to the "honor roll" of the "Renovize the Twin Cities" campaign by entering a booth for the "Better Homes Exposition," which is being planned in order to raise funds to carry on the campaign.

Approximately 30 booths have now been entered in the exposition, it was announced by M. M. Munhall, chairman of the exposition committee.

Members of the committee are making a systematic canvass of the business firms, merchants and others throughout the two cities to obtain pledges of booths for the exposition. As soon as 60 pledges have been received the date of the exposition will be announced. It will probably be about June 18.

A. V. Miller, general chairman of the campaign, on Saturday issued a statement pointing out the importance of the movement as a means of creating employment for skilled labor throughout the two cities and for

2 FRENCH FLIERS HEAD WESTWARD FOR CALIFORNIA

Codos And Rossi Take Off On Non-Stop Hop From Le Bourget

LE BOURGET, France, May 27.—(P)—(Sunday)—Paul Codos and Maurice Rossi in their world record distance plane soared into the sky at 4:10 a. m. today (11:10 eastern standard time) and headed westward for California, 6,000 miles, seeking new laurels.

Their silvery monoplane, laden with 2,000 gallons of fuel, took the air from a mile-long runway, circled the airport and departed on the dangerous westward Atlantic journey in an effort to break its own non-stop record of 5,635 miles.

The promise of ideal weather over the sea was borne out by a gently-breaking dawn, lending confidence to the aviators that they will reach the west coast of the United States in 65 hours.

The nine-ton veteran of last year's record flight from New York to Spain rose slowly and steadily into the dawn-streaked sky after bumping dangerously with her heavy load over rough ground.

"The Joseph Le Brix" used nearly all of the 5,000 feet of the runway. The plane flew low into the east before turning westward.

"We are going as far as we can," said Rossi as he climbed into the cabin just before the takeoff.

LEBOURGET, France, May 26.—(P)—The two French aviators who already have made the longest non-stop air journey in history, tonight prepared to take off at dawn on a 6,000-mile flight to California.

The fliers, Lieuts. Paul Codos and Maurice Rossi, after weeks of quiet preparation and study of weather reports, decided suddenly that the time was ripe for the most ambitious non-

JOHN DILLINGER IS REPORTED IN LONDON

LONDON, May 26.—(P)—The Daily Mail said today a man who knew John Dillinger "well" in the United States has told Scotland Yard he saw America's No. 1 public enemy in London two days ago.

The newspaper said it had received a cable from Washington saying American authorities are convinced Dillinger still is in the middlewest, but added Scotland Yard nevertheless was hunting him here.

Detectives have extended their search to palatial homes in London's fashionable west end, it was added, in the belief wealthy international criminals may be hiding Dillinger.

There are many such criminals living in London unmolested because of the inability of authorities to disprove their claim to British nationality.

At the same time, the underworld is being combed, the Mail said.

3 West Monroe People Take Rabies Treatment

Three West Monroe people were administered the Pasteur treatment Saturday afternoon by Dr. J. W. Williams, director of the Ouachita parish health unit, after they were found to have been bitten by a dog suffering from rabies. Four others are to be given the treatment Monday, Dr. Williams said.

The mad dog roamed through West Monroe several days, biting people in several sections of the city before finally being killed.

Louis Daily, employee of the Commercial Transportation company, sent the animal's head to a New Orleans laboratory Friday night for a rabies test. He received a telegram from there late Saturday to the effect that the animal showed positive signs of rabies, and immediately informed Dr. Williams and those who were bitten by the fact.

Police Chief Says Car Loitered Along Streets Ambassador Uses

OCCUPANTS GET AWAY

Communists And Other Enemies Of Diplomat And Republic Blamed

HAVANA, May 26.—(P)—A plot to assassinate United States Ambassador Jefferson Caffery and to destroy American property in Cuba was reported today by Cuban police, who revealed that extraordinary precautions are being taken to guard the ambassador's life.

Cayetano Fraga, chief of the technical police, revealed that an automobile, suspected of containing assassins, had been observed loitering along the streets through which the American ambassador drives on his way home.

Several efforts to capture the occupants of this mysterious car have failed, the police chief said, as it has been too speedy for pursuing police machines.

"We are taking precautions," he said, "and without Mr. Caffery's knowledge, one of our radio cars follows him wherever he goes."

While he said he had no definite information regarding the identity of the plotters, Fraga blamed "communists and other enemies of President Mendieta and of Cuba who wished this government to fail and with it the Cuban republic."

Special policemen in plain clothes have been delegated, the chief said, to guard all American property and to protect prominent Americans in Cuba "including newspapermen."

The explosion of a bomb on May 22 in the Havana post-office building was referred to by Fraga as one evidence of "a plot against American property."

Mr. Caffery, it was indicated, was selected as an intended victim by the plotters because of his relations with the present government.

The ambassador, a Louisianian with 20 years in the diplomatic service, came to Havana in December, 1933, as the personal representative of President Roosevelt and later, after the recognition of the Mendieta government, was made ambassador.

Communists and other radicals who oppose the government have made him a target of unfriendly slogans and speeches in their demonstrations during recent weeks.

While attributing some recent terrorist activities to anti-American plotters, Fraga said that other bombs were not placed by radicals but by "an organized band of racketeers which is preying on small merchants."

"As the government is ready to take the sternest measures to protect the rights of citizens and their property," he expressed his determination to break up anti-American plots before any serious outbreak is possible, the police chief declared that the "very existence of the Cuban republic depends upon its friendship for the United States," and that no effort will be spared to protect the interests of Americans.

CCC OFFICER BEING HUNTED IN SWAMP

NATCHEZ, Miss., May 26.—(P)—Captain Daniel Clark, 40, of Gulfport, commander of Civilian Conservation Camp No. 2 in Franklin county, was reported missing tonight under mysterious circumstances and the Natchez police department searched a large swamp below Natchez, where the car of the officer was found today.

The car was found locked near the Mississippi river. It contained clothing and other personal effects of the officer.

A brother, E. W. Clark of Gulfport, was notified. Captain Clark was a frequent visitor to Natchez and after news of his disappearance spread, large parties of volunteers joined in the search. He was a United States reserve officer.

We Want Blood
Imagination's Power
Government Take All
Loaves and Fishes Miracle

By ARTHUR BRISBANE
(Copyright, 1934, King Features Synd.)

NATIONAL GUARDSMEN are still pursuing strikers in Ohio. Two men killed, a good many wounded, citizens not concerned with the strike or the fight driven from the dangerous strike area by soldiers with fixed bayonets. Strikers enraged by the death of their comrades hurled bricks and bottles at the soldiers, crying out, according to reporters, "we want blood."

Soldiers, in what is real war against the men on strike, carry with them repeating rifles, machine-guns, guns that throw bombs and tear gas. The soldiers are equipped with gas masks, so that they can use the tear gas against the strikers without breathing it themselves or having it get into their eyes.

The strikers believe they are in the right, the soldiers obey orders, but it all comes unpleasantly near to real war. And it suggests that government may be compelled to do something about strikes, in the way of arbitration, in spite of the fact that organized labor objects to arbitration for two reasons.

First, because it would diminish the importance of organized labor leaders, and, second, because those leaders do not trust the fairness of the government or that of the arbitrators that might be selected.

Ordinarily it is desirable to let labor leaders, and others manage their business in their own way, but if it is a question of war, and death, and the right of citizens generally to peace and safety, something will have to be done.

William A. Robinson, American explorer, was critically ill on the Galapagos Islands, far out in the ocean where giant turtles live six or seven hundred years and longer, growing big enough to carry two men on their backs. A man ill and alone in such surroundings stimulates the imagination, so airplanes were sent and finally a destroyer of the United States hired Madison Square Garden in New York and announced that at a certain time he would publicly kill one child, he would be torn to pieces. The same man can start a milk company, kill thousands of children with milk poisoned by deadly germs and attract no attention.

ON SHORE, among millions of others, Mr. Robinson's plight would have attracted no airplane or destroyer. The late Nathan Straus, who protected children of this and other countries by fighting the sale of poisonous impure milk, used to say, "If a man hired Madison Square Garden in New York and announced that at a certain time he would publicly kill one child, he would be torn to pieces. The same man can start a milk company, kill thousands of children with milk poisoned by deadly germs and attract no attention."

INVENTOR DIES AT BATON ROUGE HOME

BATON ROUGE, La., May 26.—(P)—Louis Link, 68, former general superintendent for the Standard Oil company of Louisiana and widely known in oil refining circles as the inventor of the Link oil cracking process, died at his home here today after an illness of several months.

He had retired from active business about three years ago. A veteran executive in the Standard Oil organization, he was the inventor of numerous oil refining inventions in addition to his cracking process.

He was a native of Bavaria, and had made his home in Baton Rouge since 1911. His widow, the former Amelia Buege, and a daughter, Mrs. Karl Hein, both of Baton Rouge, and a brother and three sisters living in Bavaria, survive.

Funeral arrangements had not been announced late today.

JAPAN READY TO QUIT NAVY CLAIMS

(Copyright, 1934, by the Associated Press) TOKYO, May 26.—Japan, fearing an Anglo-American combine at the 1935 naval conference, is ready, it was indicated today, to abandon any claims to naval parity with the United States and Great Britain.

These claims never have been enunciated by responsible officials. They have been hinted so strongly, however, that most observers had come to anticipate a vigorous demand for parity.

Instead, it was inferred by some officials and in editorial comment, the empire now is willing to forego parity claims provided Japan is given a higher ratio and theoretical equality.

Tokyo leaders have repeatedly emphasized their determination to oppose maintenance of the present 5-5-3 treaty naval ratios among the United States, Britain and Japan.

PARKER FUNERAL MARKS CLOSE OF REIGN OF TERROR

MOTHER HYSTERICAL

Bonnie's Sister, Under Heavy Guard, Allowed To View Body

DALLAS, Texas, May 26.—(P)—The reign of terror of Clyde Barrow and Bonnie Parker as the southwest's most killers in a generation ended today as the grave closed over Bonnie, 23-year-old, red-haired, machine-gunning "moll."

Neighbors from west Dallas who had known Bonnie since childhood tramped weeds and graves in the old Fishtap cemetery to witness the last rites, which were accompanied by the hum of newsreel cameras.

Floral wreaths included one sent by the Barrow family, which buried the outlaw Clyde yesterday in a cemetery a mile away, beside the grave of his brother, Buck, killed a year ago in a gun fight with officers at Dexter, Iowa.

Even as he spoke, the funeral group was guarded from disorder by policemen who had spent weary hours searching for Bonnie and her killer companion whose career marked a trail of death among peace officers across the middle west.

Only about a hundred of Bonnie's relatives and friends attended private services at a funeral chapel. Police lines held in check a crowd of several hundred which milled around the outside.

Billie Mae, 21-year-old sister of Bonnie, fainted when she saw her body, for the first time in many weeks. Billie came to Dallas under

Suffering from severe cuts and bruises about the face and head, Fred Cook, 17, of West Monroe, member of the senior class of Ouachita parish high school, was a patient at a local hospital last night after the automobile in which he was riding collided with another car, driven by Lora Cotton, 318 Walnut street, at the intersection of North Fourth street and Brea avenue. The accident occurred at 9:40 p. m.

Cook, whose injuries were not thought to be serious, was a passenger in an automobile driven by Harvey Gregg of Sterlington.

According to reports of the accident filed at police headquarters, Cotton was driving east on Brea avenue and Gregg was driving north on North Fourth street. Since the latter street is a right-of-way thoroughfare, Cotton claims he stopped at the intersection and, he said, believing he had ample time to cross the intersection before the other car arrived, started across North Fourth and was almost close when the Gregg car collided with his.

The impact of the collision was so great both cars were overturned on the lawn of the home of John Colens, at the corner of Brea and North Fourth. Both automobiles were considerably damaged and it was necessary to tow them to a garage.

Young Cook, bleeding profusely from gas'es about the face, was carried to the hospital in an ambulance. He was the only one injured.

MAN THOUGHT SLAIN IN KIDNAP MISTAKE

MEXIA, Texas, May 26.—(P)—Six men were held for questioning today into the death of John L. Adams, 50, a dairyman, believed by officers to have been slain by kidnappers who had mistaken him for a wealthy neighbor. Sheriff Will Adams, and Red Burton, a former Texas Ranger, said one of the six suspects had failed to give satisfactory answers concerning his activities the night before Adams was killed and his body thrown in a water tank a mile from his home near Goresbeck, Texas.

Belief that Adams was slain by kidnappers was based on a sardonic note received by Dwayne Adams, son of the slain man. It said:

"Your old man is safe—excuse us, we got the wrong man."

Officers believe the dairyman was mistaken for a wealthy neighbor, Joe Morris, and that he was slain to erase the identity of his captors.

Adams' body was found yesterday. He had been shot in the head. There was a gag in the mouth and a belt drawn tightly about the throat.

This is said to be the first time a military mass has ever been held in Monroe and it will be the first opportunity many residences of Monroe have ever had to witness such a spectacle.

A circumstance of unusual importance in connection with the mass will be the appearance here of the Most Rev. Daniel F. Desmond, bishop of the Alexandria diocese. Bishop Desmond will deliver a sermon following the mass.

Opening ceremonies in connection with the event will begin shortly before noon, in order that the mass proper may start by noon, as a mass cannot be said in the afternoon. The church procession will form at the intersection of Fourth and M streets and will proceed from there to the altar, which was erected Saturday on the south portico of the American Legion home.

In addition to the priests, the professional will include color bearers and standard bearers, a color guard composed of four soldiers and the two drummers and two buglers who will take part in the mass, and the

KILLS 3 PERSONS, THEN SHOTS SELF

RAMSEY, Ill., May 26.—(P)—Enraged when a young farmer called to marry his housekeeper's daughter, Thomas Hayes, 69, today shot and killed three persons, including the bride-to-be and her mother, then committed suicide.

The dead, in addition to Hayes, are: Miss Rosie Harris, 14, a graduate of the Ramsey high school.

Mrs. Myrtle Harris, 40, Hayes' housekeeper for ten years and mother of Rosie.

William Roberts, 60, a farmer living near the Hayes home.

Henry Spires, a farmer living in the neighborhood, who was to have married Rosie Harris at 10 a. m., today at Vandalla, escaped by dodging behind his automobile.

When Spires arrived to take the girl to Vandalla to become his bride, Hayes got a shotgun, and Mrs. Harris, her daughter and Spires fled to the nearby Roberts farm. Roberts was working in a field.

SAYS BILLIE MACE SHOT AT OFFICERS

FORT WORTH, May 26.—(P)—William Sheffer, farmer, stood up in criminal district court today and pointed out Billie Mace, 21, as the woman he saw shoot at Highway Patrolmen E. B. Wheeler and H. D. Murphy on Easter Sunday near Grapevine, Texas.

"That's the lady right there, absolutely," he said. "I saw her on the spot."

The court room was jammed for the habeas corpus hearing for Mrs. Mace as her attorneys battled to obtain her release on bond so she could attend the funeral of her sister, Bonnie Parker, in Dallas. She was attractively attired in a gray woolen coat suit and remained impassive as Sheffer identified her.

Mrs. Mace and Floyd Hamilton, brother of Raymond Hamilton, have been charged with the murder of Murphy and Wheeler. No indictment has been returned yet.

SCHEDULE RANGE OF INCOME TAX BILL ANNOUNCED

TEXT IS MADE PUBLIC

School Finance Revision Measures Are Set For Hearing

BATON ROUGE, La., May 26.—(P)—Announcement that the Louisiana tax reform commission's income tax bill will carry a 2 to 84 per cent schedule range, and the setting of the commission's school finance revision bills for public hearing today stirred the otherwise quiet waters of week-end legislative adjournment.

Text of the voluminous income tax bill on which the commission has been at work for weeks, was released by Senator A. C. Gardiner, of Church Point, commission member.

Its 83 pages set forth a range of levies on incomes ranging from $1,000 to $1,000,000 and above, with $1,000 exemption for unmarried persons, and $2,500 for married persons. Exemption of $400 would be allowed for each dependent.

The state income levy measure is patterned after the federal statute. At the same time Senator Gardiner announced that Louisiana school officials, parents of educable children, and taxpayers and citizens in general have been called into clinical consultation regarding the tax reform commission's proposed cures for the state's school finance ills.

The senator, who is steering the educational finance reconstruction phase of the commission's "tax relief" program in the legislature, said the senate education committee of which he is chairman had set a hearing for May 31 at 2 p. m. on the commission four school bills.

The commission's measure would include federal income taxes and miscellaneous taxes among exemptions.

The governor would be authorized to appoint a commissioner of revenues as chief act administrator. A board of tax appeals before whom appeals from the commissioner's decisions could be filed would be created, and provision would be made for deduction of $300,000 annually from first proceeds to defray collection costs.

The term of the first commission that would be named would begin January 1, 1935 and continue for 18 months. Successive terms would be for four years. State senate appointment confirmation would be necessary, and annual salary of $7,500 a year with bond of $100,000 is provided.

The commissioner could be removed for "inefficiency, neglect of duty, but for no other reason" under the bill.

The levy on normal individual incomes would scale upward to 25 per cent on such incomes in excess of $10,000. An individual surtax of 4 per cent would be levied on incomes of

SICK ADVENTURER'S CONDITION BETTER

COLON, Panama, May 26.—(P)—Steadily improving in condition, William Albert Robinson, millionaire adventurer who was stricken with appendicitis during a South sea island honeymoon voyage, was approaching the canal zone tonight in the United States destroyer, Hale.

The little vessel, sent to Robinson's aid along with two naval planes, was expected to reach Balboa by 6 a. m., Sunday.

Administration Fears Forthcoming Contest In Legislative Fight

Coming Week Will Demonstrate Control Of Power At State Capital

BATON ROUGE, May 26.—The second week of the final biennial session of the present legislature was no more profitable to the citizen and taxpayer than the first. Little of real value was accomplished. While 176 measures were introduced during the week, against 109 for the previous seven-day period, less than a dozen got beyond the committee barrier.

Politically, the legislature seems to be moving steadily forward toward wholesale division in the public interest. If there is any legislative development predictable at this time, it is that the very thin balance of power in favor of the Long-Allen

SCHOOL SERMONS SLATED HERE FOR 4 INSTITUTIONS

This Week Will Bring To A Close Nearly All Activities

This week will bring to an end practically all school activities in Ouachita parish for the 1933-34 term. Only the baccalaureate sermon and commencement exercises at Ouachita parish junior college will remain for the first two days of next week.

In Monroe's three other higher education institutions—Ouachita parish high school, Neville high school and St. Matthew's parochial high school—the week will bring one of the major events in the educational lives of the students. They will receive diplomas entitling them to enter higher institutions of learning.

And to the many parish, city and Catholic elementary schools, this week also bears special significance. For the students in the highest grades at these schools it will mean that they are ready to pass on to high schools.

For those not yet at the top in their respective schools it will mean the beginning of a summer vacation season, a season in which they will have time to "get up steam" for the new grades they will enter in the fall.

Announcement was made Friday by C. C. Colvert, president of Ouachita parish junior college, that Dr. A. L. Crabbe, president of George Peabody college at Nashville, Tenn., will deliver the commencement address to the college students. Commencement exercises will be held at 10 a. m., June 4.

The baccalaureate sermon will be delivered at the college auditorium at 3 o'clock in the afternoon of June 3.

About 75 students will receive diplomas. Edward Reeves and Clarissa Davis were named as honor students.

More than 200 seniors of Ouachita parish high school will receive diplomas at graduation exercises to be held Friday night at 8:15 o'clock at Neville high school auditorium. Dr. Angie Smith, pastor of the First Methodist church at Shreveport and former president of Centenary college at Shreveport will be the principal speaker.

Among the graduates of this school, Elaine Rester won first honors and Marie Winkler second honors.

The baccalaureate sermon will be delivered this afternoon at 3 o'clock

SOLDIERS AGAIN USE RIFLES AT TOLEDO STRIKE

NOBODY IS INJURED

Trucks Roll Merrily At Minneapolis As Walk-out Is Ended

(By Associated Press)

TOLEDO, Ohio.—Rifles cracked around the Electric Auto-Lite plant again yesterday, snapping a powder-charged peace which had prevailed during much of the day, but no one was injured. The volley was fired over the heads of a crowd of 1,500 which tried to prevent soldiers arresting a man, said to be intoxicated and trying to make a speech.

Peace had prevailed for a time following the wounding by snipers of a national guard lieutenant and a spectator.

In the lull of active hostilities there was heard a growing murmur from the ranks of union labor of an immediate general strike in Toledo, and troops in the siege area were put on the alert against incendiaryism. One man was arrested on an arson charge after two houses and a box car were fired with oily waste.

Two men have been killed and 200 hurt in five days.

MINNEAPOLIS.—Loaded trucks and cars rolled merrily over the twin cities streets yesterday for the first time since the drivers began an 11-day strike, marked by the death of one and injuries of 100.

Peace terms require strikers and employers to accept actual agreement to be drawn by seven arbitrators selected by the regional labor board.

INDIANAPOLIS.—A strike of 700 to 1,000 workers at the Real Silk Hosiery mills was settled today by an agreement signed at New York. The terms gave recognition to the Employees Mutual Benefit association, but failed to mention the hosiery workers union, closed shop, union wage scale or other demands made when the strike began April 6.

BANK IS ADDED TO HONOR ROLL

Central Savings Joins Move To 'Renovize' The Twin Cities

The Central Savings Bank and Trust company was added to the "honor roll" of the "Renovize the Twin Cities" campaign by entering a booth for the "Better Homes Exposition," which is being planned in order to raise funds to carry on the campaign.

Approximately 30 booths have now been entered in the exposition, it was announced by M. M. Munholland, chairman of the exposition committee.

Members of the committee are making a systematic canvass of the business firms, merchants and others throughout the two cities to obtain pledges of booths for the exposition. As soon as 60 pledges have been received the date of the exposition will be announced. It will probably be about June 18.

A. V. Miller, general chairman of the campaign, on Saturday issued a statement pointing out the importance of the movement as a means of creating employment for skilled labor throughout the two cities and for

CHILD TO BE BORN TO CROWN PRINCESS

ROME, May 26.—(P)—Italy thrilled today to the glad official tidings that Crown Princess Marie Jose will present King Victor Emanuel and Queen Elena with a grandchild, who, if a boy, may one day be king of Italy.

The announcement was made in the form of a communique from Duke Borea Dolmo, 102-year-old prefect of the royal palace, to the president of the chamber of deputies, Count Ciano.

It said the child would be born in about five months. The same tidings were to be conveyed to the senate. Marie Jose will be 28 on August 4.

Italy, which has been waiting for several years for this announcement, rejoiced unrestrainedly today. This kingdom has, in fact, become impatient. Crown Prince Humbert and Princess Marie, daughter of the late King Albert of Belgium were married January 8, 1930.

War Veterans To Hold Joint Memorial Rites

Joint memorial services will be held by Rodney J. Hobbs post, Veterans of Foreign wars, and the auxiliary of Crown Prince Humbert and Princess Marie, daughter of the late King Albert of Belgium were married January 8, 1930.

All other veterans' organizations, including the American Legion, United Spanish war veterans and others, are invited to attend.

Codos And Rossi Take Off On Non-Stop Hop From Le Bourget

LE BOURGET, France, May 27.—(P)—(Sunday)—Paul Codos and Maurice Rossi in their world record distance plane soared into the sky at 4:10 a. m. today (11:10 eastern standard time) and headed westward for California, 6,000 miles, seeking new laurels.

Their silvery monoplane laden with 2,000 gallons of fuel, took the air from a mile-long runway, circled the airport and departed on the dangerous westward Atlantic journey in an effort to break its own non-stop record of 5,635 miles.

The promise of ideal weather over the sea was borne out by a gently-breaking dawn, lending confidence to the aviators that they will reach the west coast of the United States in 65 hours.

The nine-ton veteran of last year's record flight from New York to Syria rose slowly and steadily into the dawn-streaked sky after bumping dangerously with her heavy load over rough ground.

"The Joseph Le Brix" used nearly all of the 5,000 feet of the runway. The plane flew low into the east before turning westward.

"We are going as far as we can," said Rossi as he climbed into the cabin just before the takeoff.

LEBOURGET, France, May 26.—(P)—The two French aviators who already have made the longest non-stop air journey in history, tonight prepared to take off at dawn on a 6,000-mile flight to California.

The fliers, Lieuts. Paul Codos and Maurice Rossi, after weeks of quiet preparation and study of weather reports, decided suddenly that the time was ripe for the most ambitious non-

JOHN DILLINGER IS REPORTED IN LONDON

LONDON, May 26.—(P)—The Daily Mail said today a man who knew John Dillinger "well" in the United States has told Scotland Yard he saw America's No. 1 public enemy in London two days ago.

The newspaper said it had received a cable from Washington saying American authorities are convinced Dillinger still is in the midwest, but added Scotland Yard nevertheless was hunting him here.

Detectives have extended their search to palatial homes in London's fashionable west end, it was added, in the belief wealthy international criminals may be hiding Dillinger.

There are many such criminals living in London unmolested because of the inability of authorities to disprove their claim to British nationality.

At the same time, the underworld is being combed, the Mail said.

3 West Monroe People Take Rabies Treatment

Three West Monroe people were administered the Pasteur treatment Saturday afternoon by Dr. J. W. Williams, director of the Ouachita parish health unit, after they were found to have been bitten by a dog suffering from rabies. Four others are to be given the treatment Monday, Dr. Williams said.

Louis Daily, employee of the Commercial Transportation company, sent the animal's head to a New Orleans laboratory Friday night for a rabies test. He received a telegram from there late Saturday to the effect that the animal showed positive signs of rabies, and immediately informed Dr. Williams and those who were bitten of the fact.

'TARZAN AND HIS MATE'—TODAY

The original "Tarzan," Johnny Weissmuller, and Maureen O'Sullivan, are co-starred in the latest and best of the Tarzan series, "Tarzan and His Mate," the attraction playing at the Paramount theater for today and Monday. It's a thrilling adventure romance that will please both old and young.

AT LOCAL THEATERS

AT THE PARAMOUNT—The most ambitious attempt ever made by a motion picture studio to bring an adventure story to the screen has just been completed with the filming of "Tarzan and His Mate," new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer thrill picture featuring Johnny Weissmuller and Maureen O'Sullivan to be shown today and tomorrow at the Paramount theater.

Efforts to surpass all previous jungle pictures made necessary the creation of a hundred acre area packed densely with trees and undergrowth into which African animals of all kinds were released.

Beasts that are shown in action include a herd of more than twenty elephants, more than fifty lions, a man-killing rhinoceros, chimpanzees, monkeys, Wunderbeeste, gazelles, hipopotami, boa-constrictors and hundreds of other specimens of rare jungle life.

Two of the biggest climaxes of the picture show a herd of maddened elephants charging a safari of natives and white men and later an attack of dozens of lions upon a camp. Wild animal men and a crew of 1,000 production men were recruited from all parts of the country to assist the studio in obtaining the scenes.

The new story continues the adventures of Tarzan, played by Weissmuller, when a safari of white men attempt to raid the "elephants' burial ground" of millions of dollars worth of ivory. Tarzan's attempts to protect the sacred jungle hoard get him into

Of special interest in the picture are scenes taken under water by a special process that has recorded the strangest sight ever seen by human eye—a battle between a man and a giant crocodile.

The notable supporting cast includes many players remembered for their roles in "Tarzan, the Ape Man," including Neil Hamilton, Forrester Harvey, Doris Lloyd of the original cast, and Paul Cavanaugh, William Stack, Desmond Roberts and Nathan Curry added.

AT THE CAPITOL—Richard Barthelmess comes to the Capitol theater today in the stellar role of the Warner Brothers picture, "A Modern Hero," which is said to combine glamorous romance with a powerful drama and dynamic action.

The romance unfolds with a traveling circus in which Barthelmess has the role of a handsome and magnetic trick rider who has a way with women. His innumerable love affairs are brought down to four specific instances in the picture, the woman being represented by Jean Muir, Verree Teasdale, Florence Eldridge and Dorothy Burgess. Careless in love, he tosses each aside to make way for a new passion.

From his father, the circus rider inherits a passion for power and fame which leads him into the battlefield of high finance where he becomes an industrial giant, being as ruthless in his business methods as he is in love.

Majorie Rambeau plays the part of Barthelmess' mother, a popular queen of former days whose affair with an international banker scandalized the continent. Others in the cast include Hobart Cavanaugh, William Janney, Theodore Newton, Arthur Hohl and J. M. Kerrigan.

BASTROP SCHOOL TO GRADUATE 41

Closing Exercises Of Institution To Be Held June 7

BASTROP, May 26.—(Special).—Schools of Morehouse parish will close for the summer on Friday, June 8. It was announced this week by E. D. Shaw, superintendent of education.

The Bastrop high school will hold its graduating exercises on Thursday morning June 7, at 10:30 o'clock. A new form of graduation exercise is being planned for this year, S. G. Lucky, principal of the school announced. Instead of obtaining some one to deliver the graduation address to the graduates as has been the custom in the past, the graduates themselves will have charge of the program.

The program, as arranged by the seniors, follows: "The New Deal," Marine Sawyer, salutatorian; "Various Branches of the New Deal," Elizabeth Brodnax, class representative; "What the New Deal Has Done in Morehouse Parish," O'borne Rawlinson, faculty representative, and "Franklin Delano Roosevelt, the Man Behind the New Deal," Harold Hudson, valedictorian.

The baccalaureate services for the graduate will be held Sunday, June 3, at the Central grammar school auditorium. As has been the custom in past years, this is expected to be a city-wide union service and all churches will dispense with their regular Sunday morning service on that day, in order that all ministers may participate in the baccalaureate services. Rev. W. R. Harvell, pastor of the First Methodist church, will have charge of the program.

The annual senior class play will be presented Tuesday, June 5, at the Central grammar school auditorium.

'BUDDY POPPY' SALE REPORTED SUCCESS

The annual "Buddy Poppy" sale conducted Saturday by the Rodney J. Hobbs post, Veterans of Foreign wars, and the veterans' auxiliary, met with excellent success. C. A. Hunt, commander of the Louisiana-Mississippi department, reported Saturday night.

A total of 1,013 poppies had been received here for the sale, but they sold so rapidly that all had been sold out before 12:30 o'clock. In order to increase the sales, some of those who had purchased poppies returned them to be sold again.

Receipts from the sale totaled $105.17. Mrs. Mary Andrews led in volume of sales, receipts from poppies sold by her totaling $14.80. When it is considered that the regular price for the poppies is 10 cents, it will be realized that she sold a large number of them.

Funds received from the poppy sales go partly to the support of the V. F. W. national home for widows and orphans and partly to the disabled veterans who manufactured the poppies.

Dead Doctor Heals Stomach Ailments

A weird story is told of a well-known specialist reaching from the grave to curb stomach suffering. Years ago this doctor created a prescription for stomach ulcers, acid stomach, gas pains, heartburn, indigestion, bloating, belching, and other symptoms when caused by excess acid. Then the good doctor died. But his name brought fame after death as one user told another of his wonderful prescription. In the past six years, 54,189 grateful persons have written letters telling of their recoveries. This prescription is now known to hundreds of thousands as the Udis Treatment. While here, Mills asserted he was opposed to the present system of taxation and against the system of drainage of this country.

After launching his speaking campaign he said he would address audiences three times a day until he had completed a tour of the district. Professionally trained as a school teacher, business man and farmer, Mills has also had two and a half years study of law. A graduate from

'TARZAN AND HIS MATE'—TODAY

The original "Tarzan," Johnny Weissmuller, and Maureen O'Sullivan, are co-starred in the latest and best of the Tarzan series, "Tarzan and His Mate," the attraction playing at the Paramount theater for today and Monday. It's a thrilling adventure romance that will please both old and young.

AT LOCAL THEATERS

AT THE PARAMOUNT—The most ambitious attempt ever made by a motion picture studio to bring an adventure story to the screen has just been completed with the filming of "Tarzan and His Mate," new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer thrill picture featuring Johnny Weissmuller and Maureen O'Sullivan to be shown today and tomorrow at the Paramount theater.

Efforts to surpass all previous jungle pictures made necessary the creation of a hundred acre area packed densely with trees and undergrowth into which African animals of all kinds were released.

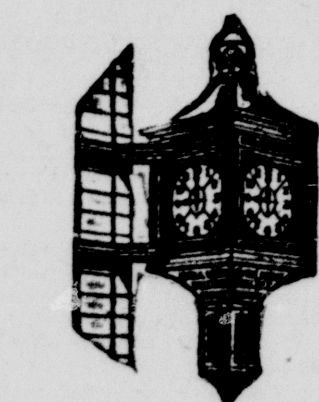

Beasts that are shown in action include a herd of more than twenty elephants, more than fifty lions, a man-killing rhinoceros, chimpanzees, monkeys, Wunderbeeste, gazelles, hipopotami, boa-constrictors and hundreds of other specimens of rare jungle life.

Two of the biggest climaxes of the picture show a herd of maddened elephants charging a safari of natives and white men and later an attack of dozens of lions upon a camp. Wild animal men and a crew of 1,000 production men were recruited from all parts of the country to assist the studio in obtaining the scenes.

The new story continues the adventures of Tarzan, played by Weissmuller, when a safari of white men attempt to raid the "elephants' burial ground" of millions of dollars worth of ivory. Tarzan's attempts to protect the sacred jungle hoard get him into

BASTROP SCHOOL TO GRADUATE 41

Closing Exercises Of Institution To Be Held June 7

BASTROP, May 26.—(Special).—Schools of Morehouse parish will close for the summer on Friday, June 8, it was announced this week by E. D. Shaw, superintendent of education.

The Bastrop high school will hold its graduating exercises on Thursday morning June 7, at 10:30 o'clock. A new form of graduation exercise is being planned for this year, S. G. Lucky, principal of the school announced. Instead of obtaining some one to deliver the graduation address to the graduates as has been the custom in the past, the graduates themselves will have charge of the program.

The program, as arranged by the seniors, follows:
"The New Deal," Marine Sawyer, salutatorian; "Various Branches of the New Deal," Elizabeth Brodnax, class representative; "What the New Deal Has Done in Morehouse Parish," O'bourne Rawlinson, faculty representative; and "Franklin Delano Roosevelt, the Man Behind the New Deal," Harold Hudson, valedictorian.

The baccalaureate services for the graduate will be held Sunday, June 3, at the Central grammar school auditorium. As has been the custom in past years, this is expected to be a city-wide union service and all churches will dispense with their regular Sunday morning service on that day, in order that all ministers may participate in the baccalaureate services. Rev. W. R. Harvell, pastor of the First Methodist church, will have charge of the program.

The annual senior class play will be presented Tuesday, June 5, at the Central grammar school auditorium. Forty-one seniors are candidates for graduation. They are: Alan Andrews, Dorothy Mae Allen, Kathleen Albright, Elizabeth Cavett Brodnax, Frances Belle Barnett, Norman Orell Bledsoe, Luzell Bledsoe, Arthur E. Castleberry, Omie Cain, Louise Collins Carpenter, Duff Cockrell, Loviene Cheshire, Elsie Dams, Daughtery, Mabel R. Edwards, Bernice Grossman, Bonny Lee Gifford, Bernice Harrison, Randal Hawkins, Atlas Harrison, Claude Allen Halterman, Harold Hudson, Binford Harrell, Glen Jackson, Marguerite Justice, Eugene Loftin, Josephine McGraw, Marion Virginia Orr, William Claude Pickett, O'bourne Rawlinson, Marine Sawyer, E. D. Shaw, Jr., Bill Stevenson, Angelo John Sealia, Millicent Shell, Bobby Leon Templeton, Katherine Takewell, Dorothy Turpin, Estha Thornton, Lavidia Turner, Helen May White, Dena Earlene Wallace.

AT THE CAPITOL—Richard Barthelmess comes to the Capitol theater today in the stellar role of the Warner Brothers picture, "A Modern Hero," which is said to combine glamorous romance with a powerful drama and dynamic action.

The romance unfolds with a traveling circus in which Barthelmess has the role of a handsome and magnetic trick rider who has a way with women. His innumerable love affairs are brought down to four specific instances in the picture, the woman being represented by Jean Muir, Verree Teasdale, Florence Eldridge and Dorothy Burgess. Careless in love, he tosses each aside to make way for a new passion.

From his father, the circus rider inherits a passion for power and fame which leads him into the battlefield of high finance where he becomes an industrial giant, being as ruthless in his business methods as he is in love.

Majorie Rameau plays the part of Barthelmess' mother, a popular circus queen of former days whose affair with an international banker scandalized the continent. Others in the cast include Hobart Cavanaugh, William Janney, Theodore Newton, Arthur Hohl and J. M. Kerrigan.

Dave Caldwell's Memory Will Be Honored Today

Memorial services for Dave Caldwell, who died recently following an operation, will be held by the Men's Bible class of the First Methodist church at the regular class meeting today. The class meets at 10 a. m. in the Knights of Pythias hall.

It was stated that Mr. Caldwell devoted a large part of his time during his life to church work. He was at one time president of the class and was a member of the board of stewards.

Dead Doctor Heals Stomach Ailments

A weird story is told of a well-known specialist reaching from the grave to curb stomach suffering. Years ago this doctor created a prescription for stomach ulcers, acid stomach, gas pains, heartburn, indigestion, bloating, belching, and other symptoms when caused by excess acid. Then the good doctor died. But his name brought fame after death as one user told another of his wonderful prescription. In the past six years, 54,189 grateful persons have written letters telling of their recoveries. This prescription is now known to hundreds of thousands as the "Udga Treatment." All stomach sufferers may have a free sample by writing to Udga, Suite 48, Foot-Schultz Bldg., St. Paul, Minn. While here, Mills asserted he was opposed to the present system of taxation and against the system of drainage of this country.

After launching his speaking campaign he said he would address audiences three times a day until he had completed a tour of the district. Professionally trained as a school teacher, business man and farmer, Mills has also had two and a half years study of law. A graduate from the Calhoun high school, he has attended the Louisiana State university, Louisiana Polytechnical institute and Louisiana normal college. For a number of years he taught school in Union parish, he said, and for the past six years he has been principal of the Johnson school at Mer Rouge.

Other candidates for the congressional post now occupied by Riley J. Wilson are Judge W. M. Harper, C. E. McKenzie and W. B. Clarke of Monroe, and District Attorney D. J. Anderson of Winnsboro.

6 SCOUT TROOPS PRESENT AT CAMP

Rally Is Held Friday And Saturday At Legion Clubhouse

Six Boy Scout troops of the Morehouse district participated in the overnight rally Friday and Saturday at the American Legion club house, 10 miles southwest of Bastrop, G. W. Simpson, executive of the Ouachita Valley Boy Scout council, who attended, said Saturday.

Features of the affair were the campfire program Friday evening and the inter-troop competition in a number of scoutcraft events Saturday morning.

The entire group of scouts "bunked" for the night in the club house, but cooking was done by patrols out of doors.

During the morning, James Davis of the Louisiana Power and Light company gave demonstrations and instructions in first aid.

Plans by the various troops for attending the camping season at Camp Ki-Ro-Li were discussed. Mr. Simpson said, and he anticipates that the Morehouse district will be well represented during the second and third camping periods.

Dr. R. B. Leavell, Dr. N. P. Liles, Hadley Leavell and J. H. Gibson and other district officials were present and participated in the rally.

Mr. Simpson and J. D. Bice of Ruston, assistant district commissioner, assisted in directing the program.

Represented were troops two, three and four of Bastrop. Troop six of Bonita, troop eight of Collinston and a newly-organized Oak Ridge troop.

ROOSEVELT HIKES DUTIES ON RUGS

WASHINGTON, May 26.—(AP)—While a listless senate was hearing Republican arguments that the tariff bill would enable the president to destroy domestic industries overnight, President Roosevelt today raised the duties on cotton rugs, and Democrats contended his act showed a desire to protect industries.

Exercising for the first time his power under the recovery act to impose additional import restrictions to meet the higher production costs necessitated by code requirements, the president proclaimed the following "fees" in addition to existing duties:

Chenille rugs wholly or in chief value of cotton, 15 cents a square yard.

Imitation Oriental rugs wholly or in chief value of cotton, 23 cents a square yard.

Rugs wholly or in chief value of cotton (except grass or rice-stuff), other than Chenille, imitation oriental, and rag rugs of the type commonly known as bit-and-miss, 20 per cent ad valorem but not less than five cents a square yard.

The action was taken on recommendation of Recovery Administrator Hugh S. Johnson after a tariff commission study.

Former Governor O. Max Gardner of North Carolina, who argued the case before the commission last January, hailed the decision as a "tremendous benefit" to the rug industry, particularly in the south, in meeting Japanese competition and interpreted it as an indication of the president's desire to protect American industries in negotiating trade agreements under the pending tariff bill.

WORLD'S FAIR IS OPEN ONCE MORE

Blaring Bands And Marching Troops Mark Gala Premiere

CHICAGO, May 26.—(AP)—Blaring bands and marching troops swung down the avenue of flags today in the gay and gala premiere of the 1934 world's fair.

Thousands lined the main artery of a Century of Progress exposition as the colorful procession proceeded to the Lagoon theater to hear addresses of welcome from city, state and fair officials.

Major General R. D. Kechin, grand marshal of the parade, led the extensive parade down Michigan boulevard. The picturesque Black Horse troop, regiments of infantry, cavalry and artillery, and naval contingents tramped behind him as an escort to Governor Henry Horner of Illinois.

Mayor Edward J. Kelley of Chicago, President Rufus Dawes of the fair and other dignitaries. Tanks and caissons rumbled along ahead of units of American Legion, G. A. R. and Spanish-American war veterans and representatives of Polish, Belgian, French, Italian, British fighting forces. Cadets from St. John's Military academy conveyed the comedy queen of the big show and her glittering court. The Notre Dame university and Chicago high school orchestras were in the line of 10,000 participants.

An address by President Roosevelt, recorded in a sound picture in which he turned on the night illuminations at the exposition, was a feature of the opening.

Nevertheless, the children of Mrs. Reid and others named in the will must pay a heavy inheritance tax on the $7,000,000 that does not exist.

THE GOVERNMENT theory is that your heirs must pay inheritance tax on what you own when you die, no matter how much the fortune has shrunk when the heirs get it. The heirs of the late Julius Rosenwald, who had given many millions in charity, received from Mr. Rosenwald's estate barely enough to pay the government tax. In other words, it took practically all. That seems too much to all except extremists in the "soak the rich" camp.

NEW YORK LEARNS that the miracle of the loaves and the fishes can be repeated on a bigger scale by those that know how, without any "miracle." For instance, there is the case of a judge of the municipal court, named Harold L. Kunstler.

Busybodies show that during four years, while "Justice" Kunstler sat on what you own when you die, no matter how much the fortune has shrunk when the heirs get it. The heirs of the late Julius Rosenwald, who had given many millions in charity, received from Mr. Rosenwald's estate barely enough to pay the government tax. In other words, it took practically all. That seems too much to all except extremists in the "soak the rich" camp.

SIR ROBERT MOND, distinguished British financier of Jewish ancestry, who arrived Friday, says Hitler's Nazi movement in Germany was financed by large German employers, seeking to smash the trade union movement. If that be so, those large employers have achieved their object for the time being. Trade unions are smashed in Germany almost as completely as they are in Italy.

The award, one of the most distinguished prizes available to students here, was presented by President G. W. Bond at the recent Tech commencement exercises.

Rally Is Held Friday And Saturday At Legion Clubhouse

Six Boy Scout troops of the Morehouse district participated in the overnight rally Friday and Saturday at the American Legion clubhouse, 10 miles southwest of Bastrop, G. W. Simpson, executive of the Ouachita Valley Boy Scout council, who attended, said Saturday.

Features of the affair were the campfire program Friday evening and the inter-troop competition in a number of scoutcraft events Saturday morning.

The entire group of scouts "bunked" for the night in the club house, but cooking was done by patrols out of doors.

During the morning, James Davis of the Louisiana Power and Light company gave demonstrations and instructions in first aid.

Plans for the various troops for attending the camping season at Camp Ki-Ro-Li were discussed, Mr. Simpson said, and he anticipates that the Morehouse district will be well represented during the second and third camping periods.

Dr. R. B. Leavell, Dr. N. P. Liles, Hadley Leavell and J. H. Gibson and other district officials were present and participated in the rally.

Mr. Simpson and J. D. Bice of Ruston, assistant district commissioner, assisted in directing the program.

Represented were troops two, three and four of Bastrop, troop six of Bonita, troop eight of Collinston and a newly-organized Oak Ridge troop.

Democrats Declare Act Shows Desire To Pro- tect Industries

WASHINGTON, May 26.—(AP)—While a listless senate was hearing Republican arguments that the tariff bill would enable the president to destroy domestic industries overnight, President Roosevelt today raised the duties on cotton rugs, and Democrats contended his act showed a desire to protect industries.

Exercising for the first time his power under the recovery act to impose additional import restrictions to meet the higher production costs necessitated by code requirements, the president proclaimed the following "fence" in addition to existing duties: Chenille rugs wholly or in chief value of cotton, 15 cents a square yard.

Imitation Oriental rugs wholly or in chief value of cotton, 23 cents a square yard.

Rugs wholly or in chief value of cotton (except grass or rice-straw), other than chenille, imitation oriental, and rag rugs of the type commonly known as hit-and-miss, 20 per cent ad valorem but not less than five cents a square yard.

The action was taken on recommendation of Recovery Administrator Hugh S. Johnson after a tariff commission study.

Former Governor O. Max Gardner of North Carolina, who argued the case before the commission last January, hailed the decision as a "tremendous benefit" to the rug industry, particularly in the south, in meeting Japanese competition and interpreted it as an indication of the president's desire to protect American industries in negotiating trade agreements under the pending tariff bill.

WORLD'S FAIR IS OPEN ONCE MORE

Blaring Bands And Marching Troops Mark Gala Premiere

CHICAGO, May 26.—(AP)—Blaring bands and marching troops swung down the avenue of flags today in the gay and gala premiere of the 1934 world's fair.

Thousands lined the main artery of a Century of Progress exposition as the colorful procession proceeded to the Lagoon theater to hear addresses of welcome from city, state and fair officials.

Major General R. D. Keehn, grand marshal of the parade, led the extensive parade down Michigan boulevard. The picturesque Black Horse troop, regiments of infantry, cavalry and artillery, and naval contingents tramped behind him as an escort to Governor Henry Horner of Illinois. Mayor Edward J. Kelley of Chicago, President Rufus Dawes of the fair and other dignitaries. Tanks and caissons rumbled along ahead of units of American Legion, G. A. R., and Spanish-American war veterans and representatives of Polish, Belgian, French, Italian, British fighting forces. Cadets from St. John's Military academy evinced the comely queen of the big show and her glittering court. The Notre Dame university and Chicago high school orchestras were in the line of 10,000 participants.

An address by President Roosevelt, recorded in a sound picture in which he turned on the night illuminations at the exposition, was a feature of the opening.

Nevertheless, the children of Mrs. Reid and others named in the will must pay a heavy inheritance tax on the $7,000,000 that does not exist.

THE GOVERNMENT theory is that your heirs must pay inheritance tax on what you own when you die, no matter how much the fortune has shrunk when the heirs get it. The heirs of the late Julius Rosenwald, who had given many millions in charity, received from Mr. Rosenwald's estate barely enough to pay the government tax. In other words, it took practically all. That seems too much to all except extremists in the "soak the rich" camp.

NEW YORK LEARNS that the miracle of the leaves and the fishes can be repeated on a bigger scale by those that know how, without any "miracle." For instance, there is the case of a judge of the municipal court, named Harold L. Kunstler.

Busybodies show that during four years, while "Justice" Kunstler was earning a total salary of $40,000 he deposited in various banks the sum of $168,629.29. Justice Kunstler admits that he made these deposits, but says he has a wretched memory, and is unable "even to suggest" where he got the $126,629.59 more than he earned. He said the fact that he stopped his depositing in banks in 1931 had nothing to do with his fear that somebody might investigate.

SIR ROBERT MOND, distinguished British financier of Jewish ancestry, who arrived Friday, says Hitler's Nazi movement in Germany was financed by large German employers seeking to smash the trade union movement. If that be so, those large employers have achieved their object for the time being. Trade unions are smashed in Germany almost as completely as they are in Italy.

RUSTON, May 26.—(Special)—Adjudged to have rendered the "most unselfish service" to his fellow-students and to Louisiana Tech during his college career, L. V. Noles of Ringgold has been presented a gold watch, the gift of a Ruston business man who prefers that his name not be announced. The award, one of the most distinguished prizes available to students here, was presented by President G. W. Bond at the recent Tech commencement exercises.

The anonymous donor of the watch each year makes a similar award in recognition of unselfish service. The gift may be won by either a boy or a girl, and the winner is selected by a committee of Tech faculty members.

Noles has just received the degree of bachelor of arts in liberal art. An outstanding student leader, he was president of the state college Y. M. C. A. and president of the Tech Y. M. C. ## TECH PROMISED ALUMNI SUPPORT

Association Adopts Resolution Commending Administration

RUSTON, La., May 26.—(Special)—Voicing their support of the administration of Louisiana Tech, more than 600 alumni of the institution have adopted resolutions "to work in harmony" with the college and to aid the policies of President G. W. Bond. J. W. Evans, recently elected secretary-treasurer of the Tech Alumni association, today submitted a copy of the resolutions for publication. The document in part reads as follows:

"Whereas, the alumni association of Louisiana Polytechnic institute has observed and taken cognizance of the fact that its influence for good can not properly function, as an auxiliary of the college, when not working in sympathy and harmony with the administration and the constituted authorities of the institution, and

"Whereas, we have reached that point in the life of this association where we wish our influence for good to be felt in a wholesome and beneficial manner in the institution and in the communities where the membership of this association may reside, and

"Whereas, it is our purpose to aid by every possible means each branch of the institution, so that its standards may be maintained and advanced, therefore

"Be it resolved, that we shall go on record to work in harmony with the administration of the college and with the constituted authorities governing its general policies. It is therefore our belief and aim not to initiate the policy of the college, but rather, if possible, it is our aim to aid by every means provided by the constitution and by-laws of this association the policies initiated by the administration and governing authorities of the institution.

"It is also our purpose to aid in securing adequate appropriations, to maintain and advance the present standards of the college, and to do all within our power to assist in securing funds for buildings and equipment, and to lend our moral support in establishing a proper and wholesome morale among the student body and the patrons of the institution."

These resolutions were read and adopted by the alumni association at a meeting here on commencement day. The adoption of the resolutions was practically unanimous, there being only two alumni in the crowded auditorium who stood in protest when the vote was taken.

The recent meeting of the alumni association was characterized by the largest attendance in the history of the organization. The meeting also was marked by an unprecedented manifestation of "college spirit" in support of Louisiana Tech in general and President Bond in particular.

It is therefore our belief and aim not to initiate the policy of the college, but rather, if possible, it is our aim to aid by every means provided by the constitution and by-laws of this association the policies initiated by the administration and governing authorities of the institution.

"It is also our purpose to aid in securing adequate appropriations, to maintain and advance the present standards of the college, and to do all within our power to assist in securing funds for buildings and equipment, and to lend our moral support in establishing a proper and wholesome morale among the student body and the patrons of the institution."

These resolutions were read and adopted by the alumni association at a meeting here on commencement day. The adoption of the resolutions was practically unanimous, there being only two alumni in the crowded auditorium who stood in protest when the vote was taken.

The recent meeting of the alumni association was characterized by the largest attendance in the history of the organization. The meeting also was marked by an unprecedented manifestation of "college spirit" in support of Louisiana Tech in general and President Bond in particular.

Buoyed by the upturn in Tech alumni stock, the new officers of the

DEBT COMMITTEE NAMED IN PARISH

Three Men Will Cooperate With State Group And U. S. Bank

Announcement was made here Saturday that J. B. Filhol, G. S. Manning and J. R. Tidwell of Ouachita parish have been appointed as members of the parish debt conciliation committee to cooperate with the state conciliation committee and the Federal Land bank. J. W. Bateman, director of agricultural extension at Louisiana State university, is ex-officio chairman of the state committee.

A statement on the objects of the organization was given as follows:

"This committee, which serves without pay, will endeavor to act in a friendly and advisory capacity for farm debtors and creditors. It is not the purpose of these committees to suggest the cancelling of debts, but to administer social and economic justice to farmers who are in danger of losing their homes and farms.

"Acting at the suggestion of the farm credit administration, Washington, the Federal Land bank, New Orleans, which serves Mississippi, Alabama and Louisiana, has made commitments for $20,000,000 on appraisals. This amount of money is ready to be disbursed just as soon as farm creditors compose their debts.

"This is a nation-wide move on the part of the government to prevent wholesale foreclosures on farm property, it is pointed out. In many cases the creditors will gladly scale down the farmers' debts in order to keep from losing their entire investments. Many creditors realize that they can re-invest the money today in basic commodities and make back the loss.

"As it has been pointed out by A. L. Gabler, special investigator of the farm credit administration, who has been holding a series of meetings in Louisiana, these committees serve only to bring debtors and creditors together in a common understanding and to facilitate loans from federal

DRUG STORES GET OFFICIAL FORMS

Assessment Blanks Sent To Druggists Operating Under Code

Official assessment forms for drug stores of Louisiana, all of which must operate under the code authority of their respective districts, have been mailed out within the last few days, it was announced here Saturday.

According to section five of the retail drug code, an assessment of $1 is levied on each druggist and each employee in a drug store to defray the expenses of administering the code. This provision is similar to those providing for administration in a number of other codes.

Drug store proprietors failing to comply with this provision lay themselves liable to prosecution in federal court and to a possible fine of $500 or six months in prison.

A central office to take care of routine matters has been established in New Orleans at 403 Pere Marquette building. This office serves seven of the eight congressional district code authorities. The fourth district, which contains the city of Shreveport, is handled independently. Albert B. Reuning of the New Orleans office has been placed in charge of enforcement.

The code authority for the fifth district is composed of J. B. Kendall, Ruston; J. W. Collins, Monroe; R. L. McHenry, Monroe; G. B. Crosby, West Monroe, and J. V. McCorvey of Mer Rouge.

It was announced that all assessments are being collected by the central office in New Orleans and may be sent directly to that place.

DEBT COMMITTEE NAMED IN PARISH

Three Men Will Cooperate With State Group And U. S. Bank

Announcement was made here Saturday that J. B. Filhiol, G. S. Manning and J. R. Tidwell of Ouachita parish have been appointed as members of the parish debt conciliation committee to cooperate with the state conciliation committee and the Federal Land bank, J. W. Bateman, director of agricultural extension at Louisiana State university, is ex-officio chairman of the state committee.

A statement on the objects of the organization was given as follows:

"This committee, which serves without pay, will endeavor to act in a friendly and advisory capacity for farm debtors and creditors. It is not the purpose of these committees to suggest the cancelling of debts, but to administer social and economic justice to farmers who are in danger of losing their homes and farms.

"Acting at the suggestion of the farm credit administration, Washington, the Federal Land bank, New Orleans, which serves Mississippi, Alabama and Louisiana, has made commitments for $20,000,000 on appraisals. This amount of money is ready to be disbursed just as soon as farm creditors compose their debts.

"This is a nation-wide move on the part of the government to prevent wholesale foreclosures on farm property, it is pointed out. In many cases the creditors will gladly scale down the farmers' debts in order to keep from losing their entire investments. Many creditors realize that they can re-invest the money today in basic commodities and make back the loss.

These pictures provide striking views of the action in Minneapolis riots during a strike of truck drivers. Nearly 40 persons were hurt in the disorders. The exciting scene at top shows policemen and strikers slashing away at each other with clubs, pipes and other weapons, and below a policeman and a striker are shown lying prone on the street after being knocked out. local military units. The use of the firing squad in connection with the mass has been eliminated and for this reason there will be no firing squad in the parade.

The mass will be celebrated by Father N. F. Vandegast, pastor of St. Matthew's Catholic church, assisted by a number of other priests. Included in this number will be Father F. A. Heagney, chaplain of the Daniel Harder post of the American Legion at Stuttgart, Ark., and Arkansas state historian for the Legion; Father J. C. Vandegast, assistant pastor of St. Matthew's church, and Father Clay Bienvenu of Camp Beauregard, CCC camp chaplain, and Father R. M. Grenillion, assistant pastor of St. Matthew's church.

Father Heagney, who is familiar with both military ceremonies and Catholic rites, has been in Monroe since Wednesday to assist in making arrangements for the mass. During the war he was in command of a unit of the students' army training corps. Later he was made a chaplain. Before retiring he rose to rank of major in the army.

A feature of the mass will be the singing of the "Missa Pia" by an augmented choir from St. Matthew's Catholic church. The composition was written by Ludwig Breitenmoser, father of Don Breitenmoser, well-known Monroe musician.

The entire program will be broadcast over Station KMLB, and several amplifiers will be placed on the lawn so that the speakers' voices may easily be heard by the expected large assemblage.

BANK IS ADDED TO HONOR ROLL

"Every business, industry and commercial activity in Monroe and West Monroe is interested in the 'Renovize the Twin Cities' campaign," said Mr. Miller. "Its purpose is to put people back to work, but in order to do that it is necessary to provide the work for them. In this effort every citizen of Monroe is asked to cooperate. We are asking the householders, the home owners, the renters, to pledge themselves to the extent of their ability to institute repairs and improvements to their properties, to replace worn-out and obsolete furnishings and furniture, to go over the plumbing fixtures and the other conveniences of their homes and list the things that need attention. It will be surprising how much of this sort of 'renovizing' needs to be done."

"Maybe it would be just a matter of repairing the step of the back or front porch," he went on, "a matter that if left unattended to might at some time cause a serious accident. The small amount necessary to rush repairs represents a modest insurance against such a contingency. Possibly a roof needs reconstruction, or the bathroom needs to be modernized. The house may need painting or the rooms to be repapered. All these things and a hundred more that will add to the market value of properties in these communities, can be purchased now at the lowest prices that will probably obtain for the next fifteen years. Labor, which constitutes 70 per cent of the cost of repair work, is lower than at any time in ten years, and the best craftsmen are available. The result is that you can build, remodel and repair at a cost only 25 per cent less than at most any time since the World war. So important to the citizens of Monroe and West Monroe is the present opportunity that civic leaders, business and professional men, bankers and laboring men have developed the 'Renovize the Twin Cities' campaign, to place these facts before the property owners."

Mr. Miller said that as soon as the funds needed for the campaign are assured through the holding of the "Better Homes exposition," solicitors will go out through the two cities and make a survey of the improvement requirements. Household owners will be invited to make pledges of the amount they are able to invest in "renovizing." The twin city campaign has fixed a goal of $750,000 in pledges.

Shreveport has reported that more than 7,500 separate jobs have been created by a similar campaign in that city. Monroe should be able to create 2,500 jobs, Mr. Miller believes.

District Judge George C. Hosey permitted her to leave Fort Worth only after the district attorney told him that the state's case against her hinged on ballistic tests which could not be completed until next week.

Mrs. Emma Parker, mother of the girls, arrived at the funeral home on the arms of relatives, and as she glanced at Bonnie for the last time became hysterical. She fainted twice Thursday when she saw the body several hours after it arrived from Louisiana.

Clyde and Bonnie were killed near Arcadia when officers called on them as they sped down gravel road and then fired a barrage of bullets when Clyde, at the wheel, reached for his own weapon.

The tremendous crowds which surged about the funeral homes where the bodies lay Thursday and yesterday were absent today but 300 curious persons stood outside as the funeral services at the undertaking establishment began. Police provided a motorcycle escort for the small cortege of relatives.

local military units. The use of the firing squad in connection with the mass has been eliminated and for this reason there will be no firing squad in the parade.

The mass will be celebrated by Father N. F. Vandegra, pastor of St. Matthew's Catholic church, assisted by a number of other priests. Included in this number will be Father E. A. Hagney, chaplain of the Daniel Hardee post of the American Legion at Stuttgart, Ark., and Arkansas state historian for the Legion; Father J. C. Catholic rites, has been in Monroe since Wednesday to assist in making arrangements for the mass. During the war he was in command of a unit of the students' army training corps. Later he was made a chaplain. Before retiring he rose to rank of major in the army.

A feature of the mass will be the singing of the "Missa Pia" by an augmented choir from St. Matthew's Catholic church. The composition was written by Ludwig Breitenmoser, father of Don Breitenmoser, well-known Monroe musician.

The entire program will be broadcast over Station KMLB, and several amplifiers will be placed on the lawn so that the speakers' voices may easily be heard by the expected large assembly.

BANK IS ADDED TO HONOR ROLL

stimulating the buying power of the community. "Every business, industry and commercial activity in Monroe and West Monroe is interested in the 'Renovize the Twin Cities' campaign," said Mr. Miller. "Its purpose is to put people back to work, but in order to do that it is necessary to provide the work for them. In this effort every citizen of Monroe is asked to cooperate. We are asking the householders, the home owners, the renters to pledge themselves to the extent of their ability to institute repairs and improvements to their properties, to replace wornout and obsolete furnishings and furniture, to go over the plumbing fixtures and the other conveniences of their homes and list the things that need attention. It will be surprising how much of this sort of 'renovizing' needs to be done."

"Maybe it would be just a matter of repairing the step of the back or front porch," he went on, "a matter that if left unattended to might at some time cause a serious accident. The small amount necessary to such repairs represents a modest insurance against such a contingency. Possibly a roof needs reconstruction, or the bathroom needs to be modernized. The house may need painting or the rooms to be repapered. All these things and a hundred more, that will add to the market value of properties in these communities, can be purchased now at the lowest prices that will probably obtain for the next fifteen years. Labor, which constitutes 70 per cent of the cost of repair work, is lower than at any time in ten years, and the best craftsmen are available. The result is that you can build, remodel and repair at a cost fully 25 per cent less than at most any time since the World War. So important to the citizens of Monroe and West Monroe is the present opportunity that civic leaders, business and professional men, bankers and laboring men have developed the 'Renovize the Twin Cities' campaign, to place these facts before the property owners."

Mr. Miller said that as soon as the funds needed for the campaign are assured through the holding of the "Better Homes exposition," solicitors will go out through the two cities and make a survey of the improvement requirements. Householders will be invited to make pledges of the amount they are able to invest in "renovizing." The twin city campaign has fixed a goal of $750,000 in pledges.

Shreveport has reported that more than 7,500 separate jobs have been created by a similar campaign in that city. Monroe should be able to create 2,500 jobs, Mr. Miller believes.

ADMINISTRATION
FEARS CONTEST

when the committee on public lands and levees unanimously reported favorably the motor-license reduction bill of Representative Joseph B. Hamiter, of Caddo, and forty-one others, and the news of that action was flashed to the interior of a certain senatorial office in Washington, the legislative atmosphere changed. Suddenly, the discovery was made that the original reference of the bill was erroneous;

that it should have gone to the administration-saturated committee on public roads and highways.

This was really no discovery at all,
because Chairman Horace Wilkinson, of the public lands and levees committee, had protested in open house that the Hamiter bill was being wrongfully referred. But, the Louisiana Kingfish, it seems, had a scheme of his own, which embraced the taking away of $700,000 given annually to the city of New Orleans, through constitutional provision, out of the highway revenues for paving. The Hami-ter bill said nothing about that, so Senator Long, considering the matter in Washington, decided that it should be recommended.

Administration Alarmed
Of course, Governor Allen, running true to form, assembled the administration house members at the executive mansion and told them what the Kingfish wanted them to do. Notwithstanding the high authority from which orders were transmitted, the administrationists were none too enthusiastic about it. They knew things that Huey didn't know. One of these was that the other team had signed some splendid pitchers who "had everything" in baseball parlance, and when they went to bat, the administrationists were quite likely to fan the air.

As, however, the parliamentary situation didn't permit of a contest over re-reference of the Hamiter bill on Friday, the Long crew was spared the humiliation of a losing contest over that issue. Nobody expected them to blunder into the Orleans legislative assembly. They baited that trap themselves, tried to avoid it when it became evident they were going to be caught and just couldn't sidestep fast enough. The score board showed 73 to 14 against the Longs. Six of the fourteen were disgruntled Orleans politicians, leaving only eight country members in the Long-Allen batting order. However, the vote was not recorded.

License Fight Paramount
The fight over motor-license reduction has suddenly displaced tax relief in the legislative eye. Visitors to Baton Rouge on Friday would have thought that the offices of the Louisiana highway commission had been transferred to the lobby of the house of representatives. Business was evidently suspended in the road commission building, which fronts the new state house on the south, and members and employees swarmed into the capitol building. There were division heads, office and field employees, and of course, armed motorcycle cops not in uniform. They made such a motley gathering that there was little room in the house for persons having legiti-mate business with the legislature.

While on the subject it might be mentioned that the enforcement division of the highway commission constitutes the shock troops of the administration. The motorcycle policemen are paid, of course, to patrol the highways; but just now they are patrolling state house halls and corridors. It is even said that two armed highway cops, paid by the state, are assigned to each department of state government the head of which will tolerate it and that a force of armed reserves is maintained on the top floor of the capitol building. Whether these reports are true or not, it is undeniable that many of the armed motorcycle policemen are detailed daily for leg duty in the lobby adjacent to the house and senate halls and in the railed-off space in the rear of those assembling places.

The struggle for lower motor licenses, in line with those of other states, has narrowed down to a fight between those who represent the public interest and those who represent political interest. Advocates of the Hamiter plan made a concession to road maintenance and development when they consented to have the minimum in their bill raised from $3 to $5. Beyond that it is unwise to go if the people are to be afforded substantial relief.

New Orleans Aroused
The Louisiana Kingfish is perfectly willing to give the people of Louisiana a reduction of $1,000,000 in automobile licenses, if the parish of Orleans will contribute $700,000 of it.
But, people of the city of New Orleans are not going to surrender this money, which is only a small part of

WHERE BARROW AND 'MOLL' DIED

This map shows where Clyde Barrow, bandit terror of the southwest,
moll," right, came to the end of their crimson careers, riddled with machine gun bullets in a police ambush along a narrow road between Mt.
Lebanon and Sailes, La., about 40 miles east of Shreveport. Texas and Louisiana officers, hidden along the road, poured a volley into the outlaws' car, as sketched, and the pair died before they could reach for the machine guns in their laps. The auto towed it, with its gruesome burden, to Arcadia.

its annual motor license payments to the state, and there are almost insurmountable obstacles in the way of taking it away from them. To carry out his scheme, Senator Huey P. Long needs 67 members of the house, 27 senators and a majority vote of the people of Louisiana in next November's general election. It is the safest kind of a betting proposition that he will not be able to corral any one of these three items.

The highway commission bill on motor-licenses, introduced Friday, will probably be referred Monday night to the committee on public roads and highways. The compromise bill of Representative D. F. Edwards, of West Carroll, will probably go there, also. Just what will be done with the Hamiter measure, which will reach the floor on second reading Monday night, remains to be seen. The independents were in a fighting mood
Friday and wanted to go to the bat with the opposition on this measure, if it were possible from a parliamentary standpoint.

But it is sometimes wise to be conservative. With the other motor-license bills before the public roads and highways committee, advancement for the Hamiter bills would be a difficult undertaking. It should be borne in mind that the Hamiter bill is a constitutional amendment, also, and requires just as many votes as the administration measure—that is, two thirds of the elected members of each house. It might be prudent to recommit the Hamiter bill, sending it to the public roads and highways committee and let the battle be fought out there.

Committee On Trial
As, in its last analysis, the question of what measure of relief the overburdened motor owners of Louisiana are going to be afforded will probably rest with this house committee on public roads and highways, the people of Louisiana should etch its personnel on their minds. If Senator Long is permitted to delay or halt remedial action in order that he may punish a community which refused to vote for his candidate for mayor, this house committee will be primarily responsible. Here are its members:
Lorris M. Wimberly, Bienville, chairman; W. J. Williams, St. Charles, vice-chairman; Monette Jones, Beauregard; Edmund G. Burke, Orleans; Arthur Mitchell, Orleans; Joseph Fisher, Jefferson; J. H. Meaux, Cameron;
Louis H. Folse, St. Bernard; David
Cole, Allen; James T. Burns, St. Tammany; George W. Lee, Rapides; H.
W. LeBlanc, Catahoula; Wm. J.
Hammon, Jackson.

During the week the house and senate went on record as favoring early action on not only the tax relief measures of the Louisiana tax reform commission, but any other bills on the same subject matter. This was done through adoption by the house of the amended Lindsey senate resolution.
The Pavy resolution on the same subject matter, but confining its provisions to the tax reform commission board of liquidation from borrowing money under any circumstances.

for the blind and board of charities and corrections.

ing auto licenses and taking $700,000 of annual highway revenue payments

The third week of the session will begin in both houses at 8 o'clock Monday night.

ROAD TAXES
And The...
Seven-Year Itch

Automobile license, gasoline and road taxes, taxes without end, and nothing to drag from except slow sale at half price mortgaged property.
The cry has been good roads so the farmer can bring his produce to town. Today the same crops are being cut short on account of over production, and by the same wise men who advises staying home, work the garden, and repair the tires on your model T Ford, the idea of borrowing the money from our local banks at 6%, sounds like going out, and nothing coming in.

$20,000.00 worth of road machinery; $13,500.00 cash money, including the cost of an election, is some money these hard times. Can you borrow money from the bank to pay your taxes, neighbor?

The intention of the N. R. A. being to curtail all overhead expenses in order that the human family may get by until times get better, and Mc-Ginnis gets a job.

Do you know that this town of Monroe, parish and state, is sorely in need of sterling, staunch, business brains; political machinery gets us nowhere.

A Ne'er-do-well, without property, purse, good will, or character of any kind, can vote just the same as a man who pays school taxes, patronizes charitable orders, and whose heart throbs for the betterment of humanity, and mankind. Plenty of mules eating their heads off; hundreds of man power number two shovels, idle in the hardware stores just as many idle heroes who dug trenches in the World War, where the poppies grow, and yet we are called upon to buy $20,000.00 worth of more road machinery, when there is already half a million dollars worth of such idle machinery in the state of Louisiana. The idea of blowing this amount of money at this particular hard time is enough to make the Goddess of Justice blush through cosmetics, paint, powder and lipstick.
Why not let Huey complete the work. He surveyed the gravel roads to the farmer's door. Do you know that some people will leave the farm, come to town, before milking the cows in the morning; play dominoes and chew tobacco all day; sleep in the livery stable at night, hoping upon hope that they will get a job on the jury in order to tax people who stay at home and pick the bugs off of the Irish potato vines?

The Andy and Amos imprint I am trying to impress on your minds is that I am in favor of a man and mule power instead of labor saving road machinery. Since the man power money will rotate throughout Ouachita Parish.

The old fashioned mule power wooden drays will make just as smooth a road as the new fangled gas taxes equipment. Besides the mules and men can vote. Certainly a great inducement to any pine pole politician.
It takes a heap of living to make a house a home, and it takes past master practical business men to steer clear of bankruptcy during depression storms. There never was a more opportune time in Louisiana for, tax relief and a new deal.

Yes I am going to vote NO TAXES June 5th.

SHORT PENCIL (BELL)

P. S.—"FLASH"—$400.00 for an electric machine to polish the Courthouse floors, and your wife, Mr. Farmer, sweeping the front yard with a broom sage broom she made herself.

GOOD MORNING! Another glorious day is ours, so let us hurry over our coffee au lait and out into our garden, where the lark, up with the sun, is waiting to sing a song of gladness . . . one hour of quiet meditation in a sun flooded garden with only the birds and the flowers for company, gets you off on the right track for the day's occupations . . . it is good, on a day like this, to forget the things of the world—the clash of congress and exchange of premiers, the demands of the diplomats, ultimatum of nations, the building of dreadnaughts, rattle of sabers, and target practice from the air . . . tucked safely away in this little corner of the world we are happy today because it is May and the air is laden with a hundred flower odors . . . we are happy because vacation time is at hand and we can at last jump aboard the magic carpet for the Garden of the Gods, Niagara or Yosemite or Sequoia, California's road to romance, following the trails of the mission padres and the conquistadores . . . the way women are shaking off the shackles of provincialism is really startling . . . today they can go anywhere in the world if they only have the will to go . . . it is really silly for those who can go where they want to, not to do it . . . we admit failure and defeat when we let the years slip away in which we make no move toward getting some place we really wish to visit . . . many who pat themselves on the back for heroic sacrifice of doing so merely to cover their shame for lack of enterprise and pluck . . . ### Class Play To Be Given At The Neville High

Many boys have made good in the big city and return home to be lionized by their old friends, all for the sake of their big town success. Such, however, is not the case with the hero in "The Lucky Break," a clever farce comedy, to be presented at the senior class play Wednesday night at the Neville high school auditorium under the capable direction of Mrs. Minnie Ruffin.

The successful magnate here is too clever to take on his own friends without a test as to their real loyalty to him. Everything turns out happily after the lucky break and his faith is justified.

Without the drastic melodrama of Grand Hotel, there will be the suburban atmosphere of the best hostelry in Matasquum, New Jersey, three hours from New York City. Up and down the elevator in its lobby near the clerk's desk, exciting events bring together a varied and amusing set of characters: John Buce, an alert business man, Bobbie Pappas, the distinguished Charles Martin, George Manteris, Abner Ketcham who squeezes the Matasquum buffalo nickles until the Indians give a war-whoop, Arthur Miller, Benny Ketcham, ignorant but ambitious, Fred Marx; Tommy Lansing, city-bred and goodlooking; Billy Regan; The Charante's Gilbert Wolf and Dot Williams; and the mother, and Pollyanna Shotwell, as the daughter, do an admirable piece of work.

Other outstanding characters are: Doris Fleming, Peggy O'Toole, Elizabeth Benton, Douglas Kelly, Alan Whitney. The performances on the whole promise to be both entertaining and amusing.

Novel Affair Given In Honor Of Miss Davis

Mrs. G. E. Mayes of Ansley, entertained last week in honor of Miss Mary Olive Davis, charming daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Davis of Ruston whose marriage on the third of June to Dr. Lucius Felton Green, will be an outstanding social event.

This beautifully planned affair was in the nature of a "shower" with the gifts placed in a "treasure" chest in the garden where it was discovered by Miss Davis. The bewildering array of gifts comprised articles for the trousseau and others of a miscellaneous nature for the new home.

Pupils of the Ansley high school, where Miss Davis was a beloved member of the faculty, assisted Mrs. Mayes in extending the numerous courtesies that rendered the afternoon one of exceptional delight. A program of music was a distinct feature of the following talented young ladies contributing their talents: Miss Aulina Edwards, Miss Mildred Virginia Welsh, Miss Nell Moore, Miss Syble Ramsey, Mrs. C. A. Moore, a writer of some ability, dedicated a poem to Miss Davis, and read the verses during the staging of a pageant, "Romance," featuring several lovely children.

The serving of delicious refreshments brought to a close this charmingly planned affair.

Miss Virginia Galloway will spend the summer months as customary with her parents in Bolivar, Tenn. Miss Galloway, who makes her home at 1118 N. and Mrs. O. M. Grisham, will leave next week, following her recent.

In the pictures today we have a beautiful group of girls who took a prominent part in the pageant staged by members of the Crosley school Parent-Teacher association under the direction of Mrs. T. Tippitt and Mrs. King Hunt, commemorating May day. Reading from left to right they are Miss Libby Haynes, Miss Edith Haynes, Miss Edna Arnold, the lovely queen who was selected by popular vote; Miss Mary Wilba McKee and Miss Justine Wilson.

Miss Dorothy Graves, lovely daughter of Dr. and Mrs. J. Q. Graves, and Miss Betty Reilly, attractive young niece of Dr. and Mrs. J. B. Vaughan, are seen in the upper left corner and the lower oval. They are both popular sub-debs who are taking an active part in Delta Beta Sigma sorority activities, and are also outstanding members of the H. H. H. club.

Memories Of Other Days Are Recalled As Old Graduates Gather For Class Reunion

Sweet girl graduates of the Ouachita parish high school who clutched trembling parchments and asparagus fern bouquets with moist hands in white kid gloves on a memorable evening in June, back in the dim, distant past, laughed together over the happy days of yore Thursday night when they met over the banquet table at the parish school where the Alumni association acted as hosts to the senior class of 1934.

Heartfelt interest is centered in the organization of the Alumni association after a lapse of thirty-nine years as manifested in the number of old graduates present at the banquet and the number of telegrams pouring in from those who were unable to be present for geographical reasons. Since the pompadour days of 1895, sweet girl graduates have had plenty of time for a social "fling," to plunge into war work to marry and have children. Now they are coming back to talk over the days when McKinley was president, when an endurance flight was a matter of one hour and twelve minutes and the dance hit of the day was "Alexander's Rag Time Band."

The serious purpose of the Alumni association is to be a tribute to the school where the members were educated. Like a regiment marching in review after its first campaign, the survivors know the worth of their equipment and they came back Thursday night, to express their gratitude.

Professor T. O. Brown, that grand old man of the parish schools, has watched the graduates leave their class room, some of them rising to fame, some to happiness and some to unhappiness. With the wisdom born of the thirty-nine years of devotion to his work he is in a position to give each class member splendid advice, that if heeded, will take them up the ladder to that coveted place which few attain.

Friends will be glad to know that Sophie Odum is able to see his friends at room 123 St. Francis sanitarium following an emergency appendicitis operation.

Charming Afternoon Tea In Home Of Mrs. Samuel Robbins Honor Bride Of Recent Date

A beautifully planned tea at the home of Mrs. Samuel Robbins, Thursday afternoon between the hours of four-thirty and six-thirty, brought a group of congenials together in honor of a lovely bride of recent date, Mrs. W. J. Veazey, who before her marriage in Shreveport on the eleventh of May, was Miss Taunton Wilkes.

Mrs. Robbins wearing a lovely summery frock of flowered chiffon welcomed her guests in the living room fragrant with the perfume of myriad blossoms, deftly arranged in classic shaped urns. Mrs. Veazey wore a beautiful mouseline de soie

Last Meeting Of Book Club Held On Friday

Members of the Altrurian Book club closed their year books with a certain amount of satisfaction over the work accomplished during the past months. The final meeting, Friday afternoon in the flower banked reception suite of Miss Irene Clark's home with Mrs. George Welch co-hostess, featured the distribution of new year books and a charming social hour during which Rube Henry was presented with a handsome club pin as a token of appreciation from the members for the year's achievement. Officers elected for the new year are: President, Miss Maida McClendon; secretary, Mrs. J. G. Cobb; treasurer, Mrs. J. H. Watkins.

A feature of the afternoon's program was the brilliant piano number contributed by Miss Mary Grace Lawn. A charming vocal number was also rendered by the Humble quartette.

The hostesses served a delicious frozen fruit salad course and pineapple sherbet to Mrs. C. E. Faulk, Mrs. D. C. Metcalf, Mrs. Robert Garretson, Mrs. George Welch, Mrs. R. B. Henry, Mrs. Alexander Maurice, Miss King Hunt, Mrs. J. H. Watkins, Mrs. R. P. Benson, Miss Maida McClendon, Miss Mary Grace Lawn, Mrs. Thomas Monk, Miss Irene Clark.

Mrs. and Mrs. J. C. Steele, accompanied by Miss Happy Tidwell, will motor to Gulfport, Miss., tomorrow morning to be present at the graduation of their daughter, Miss Joy Steele from Gulf Park college on the twenty-ninth of May. They will spend several days in New Orleans en route home and in Baton Rouge where Miss Tidwell and Miss Steele will remain to enjoy the social festivities in connection with commencement at the state university.

Mrs. J. E. Doss of Jonesville, La., who has been seriously ill for the past three months, is now convalescing and has been moved to the home of her daughter, Mrs. W. C. Lanier, 311 Louise Anne avenue.

Delightful Social Events Mark The Closing Days Of School For The Senior Class

On the night of May 24th the annual junior-senior banquet and dance sponsored by the P-T. A. and Alumni Association of St. Matthew's parochial school was held at Hotel Frances.

From every section of the city came the loyal sons and daughters of St. Matthew's once again to shake the hands of their fellow class mates and to spend an enjoyable evening in happy reminiscences and to discuss with enthusiasm the future possibilities of this year's senior class. The class colors, blue and silver were carried out in detail with urns filled with sweet peas the class flower, and other beautiful blossoms placed along the table alternated with blue candles in silver holders.

Seated at the speakers' table were Rev. John Vandegier and Mrs. John Vandegier, Mrs. Stanley Hodges and Mrs. E. T. Kenny, officers of P-T. A.

During the serving of dinner the toastmaster, Rev. John Vandegier, introduced the first speaker of the evening, Mrs. John Vandegier, who in behalf of the P-T. A. extended a welcome and offered sincere congratulations for the splendid work they accomplished during their high school career.

The initial speech was followed by the short talk by Mrs. H. John Williams who gave an outline of her method of collecting tuition for the school.

Mr. Henry Crawford, president of the Alumni association was introduced and endeavored to impress upon the seniors the necessity of maintaining the high standard of excellence and the interest displayed by the Alumni association in all high school activities.

Mr. Walter Savage remained members of the senior class that a school is judged by its graduates and that the seniors of 1934 are expected to perpetuate the reputation St. Matthew's now holds.

Other speakers of the evening were Jimmie Cunningham, Dorothy Jones, Louis Guerrier, Parnello Courville and Walter Savage, Jr., of the senior class, and Betty Keller, Paul Spohrer and Lena Danna of the junior class.

Rev. John Vandegier brought the event to a close with a few words of praise for the excellent work of the Sisters in producing such a successful class as that of 1934.

Gene And Laura Flournoy Are Presented In Piano Recital At Their Home On Tuesday

The presentation of two youthful musicians, Gene and Laura Morris Flournoy, lovely daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Flournoy, in piano recital by their teacher, Miss Beatrice Skirvin, Tuesday night, reminds us that music is playing an important part in the lives of Monroe's younger generation.

Gene and Laura, wearing crisp white gaudy frocks received their music loving friends in their home, assisted by their mother, and their instructor, Miss Skirvin, who wore an exquisite frock of pink flowered organdy with pink slippers and wide-brimmed pink straw hat.

Sixteen numbers were rendered from memory by these young students who played with all the ease and grace of more advanced musicians. Their technique was commented upon, also their sense of rhythm and their remarkable assurance.

The beautiful program was brought to conclusion with a glorified version of "Turkey in the Straw," by Miss Skirvin and Jean Boardman, pupil of Miss Flournoy, also contributed a piano number, "A Curious Story,"

Mildred Cohen Guest Of Honor Friday Night

Miss Mildred Cohen, lovely member of this year's graduating class of the Neville high school, was the guest of honor at a charming little, informal affair in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sydney Kahn, Friday night.

Dancing was introduced in the spacious living room, dining room and solarium, ensuite. Miss Cohen, wearing an exquisite frock of white swiss, was the center of admiring friends and thirty members of the graduating class present.

Many gracious courtesies were extended by Mr. and Mrs. Kahn during the evening with the serving of refreshing fruit frappe and delicious sandwiches, completing the pleasures.

Misses Ann Warburton Platt and Adelia Beauchamp Sandel, popular members of the younger set, are numbered among the fair co-eds receiving their A. B. degree from the Louisiana State university on the fourth of June. They cordially invite their friends to be present at their graduation exercises.

S. U. . . . One more week of trudging feet and then the Monroe school doors will be closed for another blissful summer . . . We are waiting to see Nibbie McKenzie wear that charming little fluff of a dress entered by her mother in last week's dress-making contest . . . it won first prize and was perfect so far as style and neatness is concerned . . . how these young matrons who devote their time to making their family happy, take an active part in a club and social life and still find time to turn out such a perfect gem of a dress, is quite beyond our comprehension . . . Hal Gordon Pilkinton, member of the Ouachita parish high school senior class extends an invitation to his friends to attend the commencement exercises at the Neville high school auditorium, June the first.

Heartfelt interest is centered in the organization of the Alumni association after a lapse of thirty-nine years as manifested in the number of old graduates present at the banquet and the number of telegrams pouring in from those who were unable to be present for geographical reasons. Since the pompodourous days of 1895, sweet girl graduates have had plenty of time for a social "fling" to plunge into war work, to marry and have children. Now they are coming back to talk over the days when McKinley was president, when an endurance flight was a matter of one hour and twelve minutes and the dance hit of the day was "Alexander's Rag Time Band." The serious purpose of the Alumni association is to be a tribute to the school where the members were educated. Like a regiment marching in review after its first campaign, the survivors know the worth of their equipment and they came back Thursday night, to express their gratitude. Professor T. O. Brown, that grand old man of the parish schools, has watched the graduates leave their class room, some of them rising to fame, some to happiness and some to unhappiness. With the wisdom born of the thirty-nine years of devotion to his work he is in a position to give each class member splendid advice, that if heeded, will take them up the ladder to that coveted place which few attain. Friends will be glad to know that Sophie Odum is able to see his friends at room 123 St. Frances sanitarium following an emergency appendicitis operation.

Gene And Laura Flournoy Are Presented In Piano Recital At Their Home On Tuesday

The presentation of two youthful musicians, Gene and Laura Morris Flournoy, lovely daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Flournoy, in piano recital by their teacher, Miss Beatrice Skirvin, Tuesday night, reminds us that music is playing an important part in the lives of Monroe's younger generation. Gene and Laura, wearing crisp white organdy frocks received their music loving friends in their home, assisted by their mother, and their instructor, Miss Skirvin, who wore an exquisite frock of pink flowered organdy with pink slippers and wide-brimmed pink straw hat. Sixteen numbers were rendered from memory by these young students who played with all the ease and grace of more advanced musicians. Their technique was commented upon, also their sense of rhythm and their remarkable assurance. ## Service....

A young couple came in the other day and did a wise thing; they told us they wanted to outfit a tasteful home and they told us how much they could afford to spend.

We didn't just show them through the store and point out the price of this item and that item... we really studied their problem.

We made up a budget of expenditures for each room. We showed them furniture that was correct in relation to other furniture. We planned out various possible assortments and made the whole outfit meet the requirements set. We didn't boost the total above what was planned.

We are happy in the thought that we've helped outfit a real home, and we aided a young couple in a practical way.

That's the kind of service this store stands for.

Beautiful Children Will Appear In Clever Fantasy Arranged By Miss Galloway

Miss Virginia Galloway will present her expression pupils in a charming little fantasy "The Enchanted Bookshelf," assisted by the pupils of Mrs. Dean Selig at the piano Wednesday evening, May 30, at the Georgia Tucker school auditorium, eight o'clock. The public is invited.

The following lovely poem was written and read by Mrs. Bess Grider Penick, at a tea given recently at the Junior college with members of the Twentieth Century Book club, hostesses. Mrs. Penick, head of the English department of the Junior college, is exceptionally talented and has several poems to her credit:

Springtime On the Ouachita
It's springtime on the Ouachita again,
For all along its willow-fringed shore
A dainty greenness drapes the lean brown limbs
Like gauzy robes some nymph has hung to dry,
And in the tangled underbrush below,
The red birds fly.

It's springtime on the Ouachita again;
The water, once a lucid, greenish blue
Has turned to earthy brown, and washes high
The banks, as if to make them sweet and clean
Before some sunny day, with swift, sure hand Clothes them in green.

It's springtime on the Ouachita again;
The sky above shines blue through filmy clouds;
The March wind breaks the glassy surface brown
Into a million ripples like the song The Mocking-bird pours from a pendant limb,
The morning long.

It's springtime on the Ouachita again;
The south wind gently fans the blossoming trees
And down the river's winding course there floats
A joyous welcome on each balmy breeze.

—Bess Crider Penick.

Jack Weir, son of Mrs. R. M. Arceaux, extends an invitation to his friends to be present at his graduation from the Ouachita parish high school on the first of June.

Irvin Causey, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Causey, extends an invitation to his friends to be present at his graduation from the Neville high school on the thirty-first of June.

Friends extend their sincere sympathy to Miss Catherine Fitzgerald in the loss of her father, whose death occurred at his home in New York.

MIDSUMMER CHIC IS LARGELY A MATTER OF COTTON FROCKS
PATTERNS 1670 AND 1835

Of course pretty cottons really do not grow on trees, but you would think they did—so plentiful are they this season—and so amazingly inexpensive! Here are two charming models in which to use any one of the pretty cotton prints or enchanting plain fabrics that now grace the counters of your favorite shop—or if you were unable to resist them when they were first displayed, lie tucked away in your bureau drawer.

Pattern 1670 is one of those subtly simple things of which most of the work was done in the designing room. In it there has been chartered an easy road to mid-summer chic wherein not even inexperience can go astray. For instance, the yoke may look a trifle complicated—but it isn't—the top ruffle is just set on along a row of perforations and may be omitted if you prefer.

Pattern 1835 is the kind of frock no girl can resist—and in which practically no man can resist her. It has the lure of femininity in little puffed sleeves, a neat yoke that ties with the

CHAPTER XXXVII

One evening in late summer Pablo appeared in the doorway of Beau's sleeping room.

"Beau—" he said.

"Come in," the other invited. Beau was stretched out at full length on the bed. He added, as Pablo closed the door behind him, "Hand me a cigaret, will you?"

Pablo rummaged about the bureau in the old, slow way that had been his immediately after their escape from Field's camp. Beau had noticed that this manner had returned.

"A match—" he prompted.

Pablo supplied the match and held it, cupped between his palms, as Beau lit up. "Well, what's the trouble?" Beau asked then.

Pablo dropped to a chair by the bed. He ran his hands through his thick, light hair. Then, elbows on knees and eyes averted, he began to tell Beau slowly and falteringly about Estelle; of how she was forced to comply with her father's demands because Field believed Pablo had murdered Jeffries.

ture, rather wordy paragraph underneath the portrait.

He stood then, trembling and clutching the newspaper. He stared down at Estelle's picture, then abruptly left the room.

Beau called after him to say something about the man named Billings who had called that day. Billings had said he must see Pablo about a matter that was important.

Later, though not much later, Beau, who was still in bed, looked up to see Pablo once more before him. Pablo was wearing a suit that had been made for traveling and not for a Cuban evening.

"Gimme a cigaret—" Beau ordered. Pablo gave him the package. As he stopped with a lighted match burning blue beneath his palms he said slowly, "I'm leaving, Beau."

"Where you goin'?"

"I don't know."

"What about your letters?"

"There won't be any letters you need to forward. There'll be none that matter." Pablo smiled as he spoke. It was a smile that Beau didn't exactly like.

"My God," he thought, "the kid is hit!"

"Look here, kid," he protested, "that Billings was here again today. He said he's got to see you. Seemed to be all het up about something. Came all the way from New York to see you, he said. You can't go without—"

Billings was probably selling something, Pablo decided slowly and heavily. He remembered that Billings looked like a salesman—the sort who always comes all the way from some very distant point to sell some one thing to one particular man.

"Tell him I never buy oil stock," he answered. Then he thought of Sir Aubrey and the fact that Sir Aubrey had been Billings' friend. But the Englishman could have written anything he cared to tell him, Pablo decided surely.

"Honest, I think you're makin' a mistake," Beau persisted. "I had a kind of feelin' when he come that something real important was up. He sort of looked that way. When'll you be back, kid?"

"I don't know."

"Well—so long. We'll miss you!" Pablo went down the stairs and out under the blackness and the twinkling fires that make the Cuban sky. He had not said goodbye to Lottie. His lips were no longer Estelle's but he would not touch them—even casually—to any other woman's lips. He could not do that yet.

"Oh, God!" he whispered harshly, although his God was far from him. This was more hideous than the awakening from any dream he had ever known.

Estelle did not see the announcement of her engagement in the New York newspaper but she and her father returned there and the big stone house was once more opened. There she became acquainted with the news through the congratulations of her friends. She denied the truth the engagement ardently. Too ardently, it was murmured with smiles.

"But it really isn't true!" Estelle repeated. The year that had passed since she had left Cuba had wrought unpleasant changes. She was less certain now that even Pablo could measure up to the standards she had once believe were his. She could not, with the new wisdom she had acquired, believe that anyone could be as good as she had supposed him to be. She was less certain about everything, in fact, except the misery with which she must be surrounded while she lived with her father.

Occasionally she realized that her only escape lay in marriage. As she thought of this she also realized that Alec Davids was kind. Very firmly she believed this.

Alec had passed the period when he had thought the game so easy as to be uninteresting. Lately now he was fumed at Estelle's "devilish stubbornness" and more than ever he was determined to win her. He almost hated her because of the way she kept him dangling with her repeated withdrawals. "Well, she'll learn a few things," he vowed, "after I've got her where she's going to be!"

"Keep up your heart, my boy," Field would encourage him warmly. And with sly keenness he would dis-parge Alec in Estelle's hearing. She seemed to look at Alec more gently after these attacks on him by her father. They made her wonder if, after all, it wouldn't be better to say "yes" to Alec and have it over with.

"I'll never be able to have what I want," Estelle reasoned. "Perhaps, after all, I dreamed most of it—"

Yet remembering Pablo could fill her eyes with tears, so she thought of him as little as possible. Those about her spoke admiringly of the fact that Estelle was always gay and "ready for any sort of fun." She crowded her waking hours until there was little time left for thought and those who spoke of her laughter did not pause to reflect that really happy humans are not in need of "any sort of good time," nor searching for it.

Beau raised himself on one elbow. "Hell, kid," he questioned, aggrieved. "What can I do about it? I love life myself."

"I know," Pablo admitted wearily. "I don't know why I'm talking. I wouldn't have you give yourself up—you know that. But I'm about half-crazy with things as they are."

Beau broke into his monologue. "Look here, kid! You'll get over being so choosy in time. Women, they're all alike—"

"Not when you feel as I do."

"Well, all right. Have your own way about but just the same they are. Look here—I didn't want to tell you what I know, but I guess I'll do it. Maybe it'll make you stop this mooning. That Field dame's engaged to a guy named Davids—"

Pablo sat back, eyes unbelieving. "I seen it in a New York newspaper," Beau confided.

"Did you—save the paper?"

"Yes, it's in the bureau drawer there. The top one. Under their rocks. Well, maybe it's in the other drawer. Oh, my God, you ain't looked! Try the next one."

Pablo found the newspaper and sat down to read. It was there, just as Beau had said. Beneath a portrait of Estelle, a little smeared in the printing but all too clear, he read: "Society has been expecting the news for some time. Mr. Alec Davids who has been cruising with Mr. and Miss Field on Mr. Field's yacht—"

Pablo found he could not read it quickly. He had to go back to the beginning and start over again. The words arranged themselves crazily. But at length he had finished the entire, rather wordy paragraph underneath the portrait.

He stood then, trembling and clutching the newspaper. He stared down at Estelle's picture, then abruptly left the room.

Beau called after him to say something about the man named Billings who had called that day. Billings had said he must see Pablo about a matter that was important.

"Where you goin'?"

"I don't know."

"What about your letters?"

"There won't be any letters you need to forward. There'll be none that matter." Pablo smiled as he spoke. It was a smile that Beau didn't exactly like.

"My God," he thought, "the kid is hit!"

"Look here, Kid," he protested, "that Billings was here again today. He said he's got to see you. Seemed to be all het up about something. Came all the way from New York to see you, he said. You can't go without—"

Billings was probably selling something, Pablo decided slowly and heavily. He remembered that Billings looked like a salesman—the sort who always came all the way from some very distant point to sell some one thing to one particular man.

"Tell him I never buy oil stock," he answered. Then he thought of Sir Aubrey and the fact that Sir Aubrey had been Billings' friend. But the Englishman could have written anything he cared to tell him, Pablo decided surely.

"Honest, I think you're makin' a mistake," Beau persisted. "I had a kind of feelin' when he come that somethin' real important was up. He sort of looked that way. When'll you be back, Kid?"

"I don't know."

"Well—so long. We'll miss you!"

Pablo went down the stairs and out under the blackness and the twinkling fires that make the Cuban sky. He had not said goodby to Lottie. His lips were no longer Estelle's but he would not touch them—even casually—to any other woman's lips. He could not do that yet.

"Oh, God!" he whispered harshly, although his God was far from him. This was more hideous than the awakening from any dream he had ever known.

Estelle did not see the announcement of her engagement in the New York newspaper but she and her father returned there and the big stone house was once more opened. There she became acquainted with the news through the congratulations of her friends. She denied the truth the engagement ardently. Too ardently, it was murmured with smiles.

"But it really isn't true!" Estelle repeated. The year that had passed since she had left Cuba had wrought unpleasant changes. She was less certain now that even Pablo could measure up to the standards she had once believed were his. She could not, with the new wisdom she had acquired, believe that anyone could be as good as she had supposed him to be. She was less certain about everything, in fact, except the misery with which she must be surrounded while she lived with her father.

Occasionally she realized that her only escape lay in marriage. As she thought of this she also realized that Alec Davids was kind. Very kindly she believed this.

Alec had passed the period when he had thought the game so easy as to be uninteresting. Inwardly now he fumed at Estelle's "devilish stubbornness" and more than ever he was determined to win her. He almost hated her because of the way she kept him dangling with her repeated withdrawals. "Well, she'll learn a few things," he vowed, "after I've got her where she's going to be!"

L. S. U. SMASHES SIX RECORDS IN A. A. U. MEET

POINTS TO TAKE
SOUTHERN TITLETorrance Again Better
53 Feet In Setting
Shot Put Record

By Bob Myers
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

BATON ROUGE, La., May 26.—Spike stars from Louisiana State university staged a Roman holiday in the Tiger stadium today, slaughtering six Southern A. A. U. track and field records and carting off the senior meet in easy fashion.

The purple and gold aggregation of record-smashers, headed by the giant Jack Torrance and Glen "Slats" Hardin and other scantly-clad demanding a place in the sunshine of national track renown, chalked up 107 points—82 more than Loyola university of New Orleans, their nearest rival—to thrill a crowd of 4,000 fans.

"Baby Jack" Torrance, performing for the last time in the S. U. stadium, started off the day's assault on records when he tossed the 16-pound shot, his favorite plaything, 53 feet, 3-4 inches.

Since the "mighty oak" from Oak Grove, Louisiana, led the ball game for a little over 53 feet just a short time ago at the Drake relays, his heave today, despite the fact that it broke his own A. A. U. record of 48 feet, 3-4 inches, was not unexpected.

"Slats" Hardin, angling after the world's record in the 400-meter run held by Bill Carr, ran into a stiff wind on the first 225 yard sprint and had to content himself with merely breaking the Southern A. A. U. record with a time of 47.4 seconds. Hardin hardly minded ruining the record, because he set it himself just last year at 49 flat.

Bringing the fans out of their seats with a spectacular close finish, George Fisher of L. S. U. eased under the tape a bare matter of split inches ahead of Al McReau, former Tiger timber-topper, and Johnny Morris, in the 100-meter hurdles. Morris' mark of 14.8 was cut to 14.5.

Red O'Neal was another L. S. U. record holder who decided to lower his mark. He was clocked at 1:53.8 seconds in the 600-meter run. His old record was 1:55.1.

Johnny Sanders, L. S. U. lapping one man twice and another three times, negotiated the 5,000-meter run in 15:46.7 to lower the old mark of 15:51 set by Noble of Oklahoma in 1928.

Bill Roy, Loyola youngster, was the only non-L. S. U. contestant to break a record. He vaulted 13 feet, 6-8 inches—three inches over the leap made by Don Zimmerman of Tulane in 1931.

HENDRICK LEADER
Average; Hemsley Is First In American

NEW YORK, May 26.—(P)—Harvey Hendrick of the Phillies, and Rollie Hemsley of the Browns today led the two major leagues in batting.

Hendrick, in his first full week of daily playing, made 10 hits in 15 times at bat and shot his average up to .391. This enabled him to oust Sam Leslie from first place although the Brooklyn clifter lifted his mark six points to .389.

Hemsley's mark declined a bit from last week's high of .426 but after collecting ten blows in 26 times up in Friday he still had a .414 mark and a lead of 23 points over Carl Reynolds of Boston, who returned to second place.

The make-up of the first five in the American league remained unchanged except for their order but the National league leaders shifted around. A big way as Hal Lee of Boston and Paul Waner of Pittsburgh, second and third a week ago, dropped to eighth and tenth among the regulars.

Records of the leading ten regulars in each major league follow:

SHORT AND SNAPPY

The McLarnin-Ross bout tomorrow night should be a huge success in every way. The gate probably will top $250,000. Although the odds favor neither the lightweight nor the welterweight, the "Smart money" is said to be on McLarnin. We like the Irishman because of his punch. . . . Speaking of odds, the Cubs are 9-5 favorites in the National league, the bookies have established Louis Meyer as a 4-1 shot in the Memorial Day speed race at Indianapolis. The Yanks are 3-2 in the American and Paul Runyan is 6-1 in the National Open. . . . Bernie Bierman has such fine material at Minnesota that he plans to use two backfields of equal strength against conference competition next fall. . . . Owner Tom Yawkey already has spent $235,000 on the Boston Red Sox and the Sox still need plenty of elastic to hold 'em up.

Jack Dempsey and Stanley Hack, the Cubs' infielder, are sports celebs who will be paid before many weeks. . . . Odell Hale has several nicknames but none is more appropriate than "Bad News," which he received from and Alexandria sports writer during his Cotton States league days.

Charley Gelbert, Cardinal infielder who was injured when his shotgun was accidentally discharged a couple of years ago, is working again and he believes he'll be able to play regularly soon. . . . A sand-lot baseball game at Knoxville recently produced the astounding score of 64-19.

Phil Rostor, president of the National Softball association, says 5-000,000 are playing that game in the United States today. And that doesn't include the 300 players in Monroe. . . . A man doesn't have to hunt long to find a place to bet on the horses in Chicago. There are 15,000 handbooks in the Windy City.

The Yankees figure Cleveland to be the best ball club in the west. And the Indians recently gave those Yanks a convincing lesson. . . . Few golfers expect the record of Mrs. E. S. Girault, stellar Monroe shortmarker. Although a newcomer to tournament competition, Mrs. Girault was a championship finalist twice in the state meet and captured the championship flight consolation trophy in the Southern tourney, all in less than two years. . . . The Kraft tourney at Batavia will be held July 14 and 15. It's one of the most successful meets in the state each year. That's because the Morchouse club is one of the best. . . . Pa Strubing has gone into the lumber business in South Carolina. . . . The Southern association is enjoying an attendance boom. Nashville and Atlanta are the chief beneficiaries. We still like the Vols in the Southern race.

Johnny Sanders, L. S. U. lapping one man twice and another three times, negotiated the 5,000-meter run in 15:46.7 to lower the old mark of 15:51 set by Noble of Oklahoma in 1928.

CUBS RALLY TO DEFEAT BRAVESBruins Rout Cantwell
And Score 6-4 Victory
In Late Innings

BOSTON, May 26.—(P)—Held scoreless and to two hits by Ben Cantwell in the first five innings while the Braves gave up a four-run lead in the fifth, the Chicago Cubs came from behind today to win the series opener 6 to 4 and to regain second place in the National league standings.

The effectiveness of the Cubs' pinch hitters proved the deciding factor in the game. They got two runs in the sixth when Babe Herman, hitting for Kiki Cuyler, smacked a double following a two-bagger by Augie Galan and a single by Chuck Klein, who played all three outfield positions.

That proves one point: that batting averages have been benefited by the new ball, and that pitchers have suffered accordingly.

NEW YORK GETS
Fans To Vote On Players
For Annual Baseball
Tilt July 10

NEW YORK, May 26.—(P)—The inter-series baseball game between all-star players of the American and National leagues will be played at the Polo grounds, home of the New York Giants, on July 10. It was decided today at a meeting of league presidents and Baseball Commissioner Kenesaw Mountain Landis.

The game was played last year for the first time in Chicago in the White Sox park.

Last year's site was decided on the flip of a coin, won by President William Harridge, of the American league, but it was decided today's conference to alternate the game hereafter.

The game will start at 12:30 p.m., eastern standard time, and if rained out on July 10 will be played next morning, starting at 10 a.m.

Each team will be limited to 20 players, exclusive of coaches and managers, and will be picked by a vote of the fans.

Several changes in handling the contest, which turned out to be a tremendous success when sponsored in Chicago by a newspaper last year, were decided upon at the meeting of the baseball officials.

A committee of sports writers from the New York chapter of the Baseball Writers' association will handle the balloting contest to determine the makeup of the two teams. The American league won the first of the series, 4 to 2.

Managers and coaches of the two teams will be picked by the league heads, but the lineups will be chosen by vote of the fans conducted by newspapers throughout the country. The top 20 in each league after the balloting are all in will make up the squads from which the managers will choose the starting nines.

LITTLE SCORES 4 AND 13 TRIP IN BRITISH AMATEUR

RECORDS FALL AS U. S. STAR WHIPS WALLACE IN FINAL

Californian Shoots Amazing 66 In Morning Round Of Match

By Gayle Talbot (Associated Press Sports Writer) PRESTWICK, Scotland, May 26.—(AP)—Literally blinding his opponent with the greatest exhibition of competitive golf ever shot in the championship, W. Lawson Little, 23-year-old Pacific coast husky, today overcame hapless Jimmy Wallace, Scottish carpenter, 14 and 13, to win the British amateur title. He was the third native American to win the championship.

The gallery of upwards of 12,000, which swarmed after the match hopeful of victory for their native idol, gave the square-shouldered American one of the greatest ovations ever accorded a golfer in this country.

For the rest of their lives, every man, woman and child who watched the long-hitting Little burn up this strenuous seaside course under most trying conditions will remember the invader's red hot 66 to be 12 up at the end of the morning round and his three under par score for the concluding five holes. Wallace did not win a hole.

When the new champion and Wallace returned from the 23rd hole, where the slaughter ended, a solid lane of cheering Scots made a triumphant pathway to the clubhouse for the victor and the vanquished.

There the spectators remained patiently for another look at Little, who ducked into the clubhouse to change his clothes for a presentation of the trophy.

Regardless of their disappointment over Wallace's crushing defeat, the natives of the land of heather love a great golfer and when Little made a charming speech in accepting the trophy they interrupted him after every sentence with a booming cheer.

Throughout the sensational, record-cracking match Little's face was a mask of determination but he smiled when the cup was presented to him by the venerable Marquis Ailsa, acting for the Prince of Wales.

As far as 12,000 Scots are concerned, Little now supplants Bobby Jones and the veteran Harry Vardon as the world's greatest golfer. They saw him shoot 23 holes in eight under par, including seven birdies and an eagle three for a new all-time record for this classic tournament.

Little's 66 in the morning shattered the professional course record of 69 hung up by MacDonald Smith and smashed the amateur standard of 71 set by E. Blackwell. That sizzling round also created a new low for championship rounds.

Only once in what was to be a 36-hole match did Little yield to par. The lapse occurred at the sixth hole where he required two putts from six feet for a five. Otherwise he was even with par or under regulation figures.

The chunky Californian set the gallery wild at the 505 yard third hole in the morning. He belted two healthy wood shots to put the ball 15 feet past the cup and then sank the putt for a brilliant eagle three, demoralizing the carpenter who snared a birdie.

Little again emphasized his driving power at the 288 yard 16th where he poled out a long one to the edge of the green and followed this up by laying his approach stone dead.

After the match was over Little expressed regret that it didn't last longer, and well he might.

There was a jubilant and dramatic scene around the clubhouse after the presentation when Little went out to the 15th green with one of the club's oldest members and engaged in a putting contest with a century-old wooden putter. He won hands down and several thousand Scots, who still lingered around more than half an hour after the match was concluded, cheered heartily.

Little gained the finals by virtue of victories over R. W. Ripley of Banstead Downs; Lester Rankin of Sunningdale; Eric McRivie of Scotland; Lionel Munn of Ireland; Gordon Peters of Glasgow; and T. A. Bourn of Sunningdale. Bourn was beaten in the 1933 finals by the Hon. Michael Scott who did not defend this year.

While Little was scoring the course Johnny Goodman, American open champion, who was put out in the fifth round by Leslie Garnett,

Daredevils Of The Roaring Road Set For 500-Mile Hoosier Grind

Field Of 33 Awaits Gun In Toughest Speed Test Wednesday

By Barney Oldfield (Daddy of Drivers)

INDIANAPOLIS, May 26.—Thrills for courageous drivers and the relentless story of fuel economy for the engineers is the three-point program of the 22nd running of the annual 500-mile auto race here May 30.

Fuel consumption, for the first time in the history of motor racing, will be restricted. Each car is limited to the use of 45 gallons for the entire run, and must average more than 11 miles to the gallon.

The starting field has been cut this year from 42 to 33 cars. With nine fewer starting places, qualifying trials have been the most interesting held on the track and have practically assured officials that only the best speedsters will answer the starting flag.

There are four experimental cars in the race, radical in their operation and designed to add an interesting chapter to racing history. Two oil-burning cars head this list. Another interesting experiment is the 16-cylinder, two-cycle car entered by the veteran Leon Duray.

Two former winners, one a two-time victor, head the list of drivers, who range from weather-beaten veterans to pink-cheeked youngsters making their first start in the big time.

Louis Meyer, champion of champions, who won in 1928 and came back for another victory in 1932, will drive a new car which he designed and built himself. If there is such a thing as a favorite in this most grilling of all races, the best portion of the money would be on this veteran youngster from the Pacific coast.

Fred Frame, who won in 1932 and who has already collected approximately $50,000 in cash from the Speedway, has entered three cars and will drive the "flag-car" himself.

Two veterans of a dozen years of racing on the bricks, Phil Shafer and Leon Duray, both of whom started at Indianapolis in 1922, are back as owners of two-car teams and both will drive themselves. Shafer, former cowboy from Fort Worth, Tex., has selected Al Miller of Detroit for his second car, and Mauri Rose, of Dayton, Ohio, will pilot Duray's other mount.

Tony Guletta of Kansas City, who has led two races, but never won, has qualified a semi-stock job and will act as relief driver for Meyer in event of an emergency. Wilbur Shaw, hometown boy who finished second last year, is up on a faster stepper entered by Joe Marks of Gary, Ind.

The "class of 1927," boys who first took to the bricks that year, when the newcomer, George Souders, drove to an unexpected victory, are well represented. Meyer and Frame both started that year. Other members of the class are Frank Brisko, Milwaukee; Dave Evans, Columbus, Ind.; Cliff Bergere, Los Angeles; Jack Pettit, Chicago, and Wesley Crawford, Indianapolis.

Lou Moore has made a flying trip back from competing in Tripoli to get under the wire here and the ever-popular Wild Bill Cummings is ready to set his usual fast pace.

Of the newcomers, Little Kelly Pettito, who was one of the fastest qualifiers, with a speed of more than 119 miles an hour, and Al Gordon, Pacific coast champion, are the most spectacular and most feared. Both have fast little four-cylinder cars.

looked after the transportation of Little's baggage to Liverpool, from where the American Walker Cup players left tonight on the S. S. Laconia on their homeward journey.

Following the precedent established by Bobby Jones in 1930, when he won the championship, Little personally is bringing home the trophy. Jess Sweetser, who was the first native American to win the title, had the cup sent over after him.

The Laconia, an eight day boat, is due to stop in Boston late next Saturday. According to tentative plans, Little will leave the liner there and fly by train direct to the Merion Cricket club outside of Philadelphia where he will play in the American open championship beginning June 7.

NATS DOWN CHIXO CHICAGO, May 26.—(AP)—Washington staved off a late White Sox challenge to take the opening game of the series today, 9 to 7.

Alvin Crowder, in trouble after a fine start, fanned Evar Swanson with the tying run on base for the final out in the ninth.

Heinie Manush led the Senators' 13 hit attack off three White Sox pitchers with a double and three singles. Crowder, except for Bob Boken's homer, was in complete command until the eighth when, leading 8 to 2, he was bogged down and the Sox scored four runs on two passes, two infield hits, Bluer's error and two infield outs.

NEW STEEL TRAIN SETS UP RECORD ON NON-STOP RUN

Stream-Lined Zephyr Travels From Denver To World's Fair

CHICAGO, May 26.—(P)—A streamlined train of stainless steel slid into Chicago at 7:09 o'clock (C. S. T.) tonight after a non-stop, record-breaking run of 1,015.4 miles from Denver at an average speed of 77.5 miles an hour.

The up-to-the-minute creation of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad flashed through a finish wire strung across Halsted street at 16th street after a dash that started in Colorado at 6:04 a. m. (Central Standard Time). Its total elapsed time was 13 hours and 5 minutes.

The new conqueror of the plains, victor in its race against the sun, went forward to the World's fair grounds where it was to be garlanded with emblems of its triumph of the exposition's opening day.

The train reached a top speed of 112.5 miles per hour on a three-mile run shortly after its start and at one time maintained an average of 90 miles an hour over a 9.6 mile course. It failed, however, to beat the speed record made over a 4.8 mile run in 1904 by the Philadelphia and Reading railroad which covered that short distance at an average of 115.2 miles per hour.

Zooming out of the Colorado dawn with 72 passengers aboard, the speeding train streaked across the midwest and soon beat the previous non-stop railroad record—401 miles done by England's Royal Scot at an average speed of 56 miles an hour. The Zephyr averaged 73.1 miles per hour over that distance.

Hurling over ribbons of steel, flying like a giant arrow on straight stretches, darting like a snake around curves, the Zephyr beat its own previous speed of 109 miles an hour by thrusting its nose forward in amazing speed as the train crew pushed it to its utmost.

A few minutes after the train reached Halsted Street station it slowed down, wound the way over tracks in the city and appeared on Chicago's lake front before a crowd of about 100,000 at the fair.

There it was bunched in the Travel and Transportation building—representative of a new era of rail transportation and placed for exhibit beside an engine of the past—a Delaware and Hudson locomotive of 1827 vintage.

FIRE IS STARTED BY LONGSHOREMEN

Two Negroes Beaten Up By Rival Unionists At New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, May 26.—(P)—The waterfront labor distasteful between two sets of longshoremen's unions today resulted in two small fires in warehouses, the beating up of two negroes by rival unionists and the arrest of three negroes.

Firemen were called to extinguish a blaze in the Federal Warehouse building where police said inflammable material had been set off by longshoremen and threatened $100,000 worth of cotton and a $22,000 building. The fire was put out with an estimated loss of $750.

While going to the warehouse fire, the firemen noticed smoke emerging from a storage building at Tchoupitoulas and Felicite streets owned by the Public Belt railroad. The fire was extinguished with even less loss than the first.

Two negroes were arrested on the waterfront for carrying concealed pistols and another negro on his way to work was beaten by four other negroes, who took $1.60 from his pocket and one shoe from his foot after he had been knocked down and beaten with brass knuckles. One negro was arrested charged with the offense.

But this was regarded as a quiet day on the waterfront as organized hostilities between the unions had been called off pending conferences. The argument, which dates back to 1923, is between an old labor union with two sections, one for negroes and another for white workers, and a new union of both whites and blacks, which the old union leaders charge are company unions.

HOT OIL MEN TO BE PROSECUTED

U. S. Agents Hear Instructions From Ickes At Dallas Meeting

DALLAS, Texas, May 26.—(P)—Agents of the department of the interior and the federal oil administration at a conference here today heard Secretary Harold L. Ickes' instructions to them to "prosecute relentlessly every producer and shipper of hot oil who has flouted the code and endangered stability of the oil industry."

He said the plan extended beyond the production of "hot oil"—that produced in violation of proration regulations—and contemplated as well a vigorous campaign to enforce provisions of the code for petroleum that relate to marketing and to labor and wages. He said there had been numerous complaints and that they could be prosecuted with vigor and promptness.

Glavis' conference with the agents in the office of E. B. Johnson, agent in charge, continued throughout today and will be resumed tomorrow.

CRATE OF TOMATOES IS DISPLAYED HERE

The first crate of Ouachita parish-grown tomatoes to be displayed in Monroe this year was brought to the office of the Monroe Morning World Saturday, after being grown by M. A. Coleman and sons on the H. I. Payne farm. This farm is located in ward two of Ouachita parish, on Beaufort bayou.

Mr. Moore planted four acres of tomatoes to be sold on the local produce market and an additional acre to be used for canning. The tomato seeds were planted in a hotbed on December 20 and the plants were allowed to grow there for seven weeks before being transferred to a cold-frame. After they had been transferred to the cold-frame they withstood a temperature of 22 degrees. In order to save them during the extremely cold weather, Mr. Moore covered them with cloth and pine needles.

SIMPLE JOB TO CORRECT TIMING

Chevrolet Introduces Principle Which Insures Best Results

Hairbreadth accuracy in timing motor ignition, heretofore a job for a trained expert, is made so simple that anyone can do it in a few minutes by an ingenious application of stroboscopic principles developed by Chevrolet engineers. As a result, the owner of any 1934 Chevrolet car or truck may roll it into an official service station and have his timing perfectly adjusted with even less trouble and delay than are involved in having his battery checked; in fact, without even stopping his engine. An accuracy in timing to one-half of one degree is readily obtained.

The Chevrolet arrangement is to use a polished steel ball, pressed into the rim of the flywheel, as a marker, instead of the usual faint groove, and to provide a simple and inexpensive means of making the ball clearly visible and seemingly standing still every time the spark plug of No. 1 cylinder fires, while the engine is running at idling speed.

This stroboscopic effect is obtained by using a special Neon lamp connected to the spark plug. With the engine running at 500 r.p.m. the lamp illuminates the ball for an instant 250 times a minute. If the timing is correct, the ball appears directly under the fixed pointer. If it doesn't, correction is effected by loosening the distributor clamp and rotating the distributor line up exactly. Locking the distributor in this position ends the operation.

Chevrolet engineers have found that the ability to time the engine while it is running brings better results than even an expert job with the engine stopped. Ordinarily, timing is checked only during infrequent engine tune-up jobs at service stations. By simplifying the job, Chevrolet enables owners to keep their engines at maximum performance capacity by frequent timing.

MECHANICS WHO GUESS COST YOU MONEY

We know our stuff and have modern shop tools and equipment to work with.

This eliminates guesswork and saves you money. A tune-up at regular intervals will prolong the life of your motor, and, at the same time, materially reduce the cost per mile of driving. The outlay for a scientific tune-up is so small that the saving in gas and oil generally pays for it in a very short time. We do the job scientifically with the finest equipment money can buy.

CAMERA SHOWS TERRIFIC ACCELERATION

A Long Island, N. Y., photographer has evolved a new method of graphically and accurately showing acceleration by means of the camera. By means of special photographic equipment, which permits successive exposures at extremely short intervals of time, the photographer is able to catch simultaneously the movement of the hands of the stop-watch and the speedometer, thus registering the speed of the car at any elapsed time.

In the view shown here the photographer has photographed the speedometer and the stop-watch at zero, before the car is put in motion. 12 seconds later the car has attained a speed of 47 miles per hour, and in 21 seconds the car has reached 75½ miles per hour.

The camera man recently explained his idea to officials of the Hudson Motor Car Co., who instructed their New York distributor to place a Terraplane and driver at the disposal of the photographer for the purpose. The timer, or stop-watch, employed was the property of the photographer, and its accuracy is properly vouched for. Since the acceleration figures parallel so closely those obtained on tests by the Engineering Department at the plant, the accuracy of this method of depicting acceleration is verified.

As will be noted, the car was taken fresh from stock. The odometer dial on the instrument shows that it had only been operated a little over 89 miles. This is admittedly cruel treatment to give a new automobile, but with the duoflo oiling system employed on the Terraplane cars, a short spurt of this kind can be taken even with a new car without harm, although it is not generally recommended. The photographer caught the car at speed immediately after the test to round out his pictorial record of the interesting demonstration. At the conclusion of the trial, the photographer was more amazed at the terrific acceleration of the car than he was at the success of his experiment. "I didn't think there was a car made that could accelerate so rapidly!" he exclaimed.

The car is a stock Terraplane 6 cylinder Sedan, the exact duplicate of which is found on any Terraplane and Hudson salesroom floor. No special gears were employed, and the standard cylinder head, giving normal compression, was used.

PONTIAC EXHIBIT ATTRACTS PRAISE

Manufacturers Of Popular Car Arrange Attractive Features

With every indication pointing to greater attendance at a Century of Progress than last year, a close inspection of the hundreds of exhibits shows that almost every exhibitor has taken every possible pains to display his wares attractively than he did last year, if such an improvement can be imagined.

In the great General Motors building, the Pontiac Motor company has retained all of its features of a year ago and has added several outstanding attractions of exceptional interest.

The famous mechanical talking Indian Chief that mystified so many fair visitors with its uncanny ability to converse intelligently with young and old alike, is back at its old stand with all of its old-time verve and gusto. Added attractions include a costly highly finished chassis showing the action of all working parts. Of especial interest is the functioning of the "knees" in "slow-motion" rhythm, the coiled springs compressing and extending within the walls of their cut-out cylinders.

What actually happens to the working parts of a Pontiac straight eight engine after it has been driven the equivalent of three times around the world is spread out in plain sight. It is a display of a completely disassembled 1934 engine after 75,000 miles of actual service. The wear was so slight that in the case of most of the vital parts the measurement was in fractions of a thousandth of an inch. Other special exhibits that are holding their crowds are the working life-sized model of Pontiac's sensitized self-energizing brakes and a detailed operating model of the famous knee-

NEW EL CUBO IS PROVING POPULAR

Phil D. Mayer And Son Introduces New And Milder Product

Reports coming into the office of Phil D. Mayer & Son, manufacturers of El Cubo "Cream of Quality" cigars, show that the new mild El Cubo is winning favor everywhere. Sometime ago the makers of El Cubo installed a new and improved method for double curing the same fine tobaccos always used. And without saying a word about it to the trade the new mild El Cubo was put into the stores.

The response was immediate, many smokers telling their cigar dealers how much they now liked the cigar—complimenting the new and pleasing mildness which made the rich Havana flavor so enjoyable. Some smokers are even taking the trouble to call up the factory to express their appreciation.

All of this is very gratifying to the El Cubo manufacturers who feel that no trouble or expense is too great when the extra investment and time required produces a product that meets the exact taste of their customers. The new mild El Cubo is now in practically every cigar store in this territory and further distribution is extending as fast as factory production permits.

PERIODIC CHECK OF EYES URGED

Many Persons Do Not Realize They Have Defects Of Vision

When we look at the cold facts as compiled from the reports of trained investigators, we are led to wonder how the American people get along with the defective eyesight disclosed. Almost 60 per cent of the people of the United States have defects of vision to the point of needing glasses.

The larger part of this 60 per cent are not wearing glasses, because they are unaware that they have anything wrong with their eyes. The army reports of a few years back showed physical examinations indicating total loss of sight in one eye without the knowledge of the patient. This report, while almost unbelievable to the layman, is, however, official, and is not surprising to the experienced optometrist.

It is entirely possible that sight may be seriously impaired without being suspected. For instance, defects from birth are accepted as normal, and the unfortunate individual never suspects the beauties of this world that he is missing. On the other hand, defects of vision may creep on so gradually that the slow deterioration of visual powers is not observed until a serious condition exists.

The safe plan for any individual to follow is a periodic check-up on his powers of sight, correcting any trouble as soon as discovered. This article is published through the courtesy of the Cote Optical company, Dr. C. C. Fryant, optometrist, at 129 DeSiard street.

NEW STEEL TRAIN SETS UP RECORD ON NON-STOP RUN

Stream-Lined Zephyr Travels From Denver
To World's Fair

CHICAGO, May 26.—(P)—A stream-lined train of stainless steel slid into Chicago at 7:09 o'clock (C. S. T.) tonight after a non-stop, record-breaking run of 1,013.4 miles from Denver at an average speed of 77.5 miles an hour.

The up-to-the-minute creation of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad flashed through a finish wire strung across Halsted street at 16th street after a dash that started in Colorado at 6:04 a. m. (Central Standard Time). Its total elapsed time was 13 hours and 5 minutes.

The new conqueror of the plains, victor in its race against the sun, went forward to the World's fair grounds where it was to be garlanded with emblems of its triumph of the exposition's opening day.

The train reached a top speed of 112.5 miles per hour on a three-mile run shortly after its start and at one time maintained an average of 90 miles an hour over a 9.36 mile course. It failed, however, to beat the speed record made over a 4.8 mile run in 1904 by the Philadelphia and Reading railroad which covered that short distance at an average of 115.20 miles per hour.

Zooming out of the Colorado dawn with 72 passengers aboard, the speeding train streaked across the midwest and soon beat the previous non-stop railroad record—401 miles done by England's Royal Scot at an average speed of 56 miles an hour. The Zephyr averaged 73.1 miles per hour over that distance.

Hurling over ribbons of steel, flying like a giant arrow on straight stretches, darting like a snake around curves, the Zephyr beat its own previous speed of 109 miles an hour by thrusting its nose forward in amazing speed as the train crew pushed it to its utmost.

A few minutes after the train reached Halsted Street station it slowed down, wound its way over tracks in the city and appeared on Chicago's lake front before a crowd of about 100,000 at the fair.

There it was bunched in the Travel and Transport building—representative of a new era of rail transportation and placed for exhibit beside an engine of the past—a Delaware and Hudson locomotive of 1827 vintage.

FIRE IS STARTED BY LONGSHOREMEN

Two Negroes Beaten Up
By Rival Unionists At New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, May 26.—(P)—The waterfront labor disturbances between two sets of longshoremen's unions today netted two small fires in warehouses, the beating up of two negroes by rival unionists and the arrest of three negroes.

Firemen were called to extinguish a blaze in the Federal Cotton Warehouse building where police said inflammable material had been set off by longshoremen and threatened $10,000 worth of cotton and a $32,000 building. The fire was put out with an estimated loss of $750.

While going to the warehouse fire, the firemen noticed smoke emerging from a storage building at Tchoupitoulas and Felicite streets owned by the Public Belt railroad. The fire was extinguished with even less loss than the first.

Two negroes were arrested on the waterfront for carrying concealed pistols and another negro on his way to work was beaten by four other negroes, who took $1.00 from his pocket and one shoe from his foot after he had been knocked down and beaten with brass knuckles. One negro was arrested charged with the offense.

But this was regarded as a quiet day on the waterfront as organized hostilities between the unions had been called off pending conferences. The argument, which dates back to 1923, is between an old labor union with two sections, one for negroes and another for white workers, and a new union of both whites and blacks, which the old union leaders charge are company unions.

HOT OIL MEN TO BE PROSECUTED

U. S. Agents Hear Instructions From Ickes At Dallas Meeting

DALLAS, Texas, May 26.—(P)—Agents of the department of the interior and the federal oil administration at a conference here today heard Secretary Harold L. Ickes' instructions to them to "prosecute relentlessly every producer and shipper of hot oil who has flouted the code and endangered stability of the oil industry."

Louis R. Glavis, chief of the division of investigation for the oil administration, landed here in an army plane today from Washington and immediately went into the conference to impart Secretary Ickes' latest program. He said the plan extended beyond the production of "hot oil"—that produced in violation of proration regulations—and contemplated as well a vigorous campaign to enforce provisions of the code for petroleum that relate to marketing and to labor and wages. He said there had been numerous complaints and that they could be prosecuted with vigor and promptness.

Glavis' conference with the agents in the office of E. B. Johnson, agent in charge, continued throughout today and will be resumed tomorrow.

CRATE OF TOMATOES IS DISPLAYED HERE

The first crate of Ouachita parish-grown tomatoes to be displayed in Monroe this year was brought to the office of the Monroe Morning World Saturday, after being grown by M. A. Coleman and sons on the H. I. Payne farm. This farm is located in ward two of Ouachita parish, on Boeuf bayou.

Although grown extremely early, the tomatoes were good-sized, well shaped and ripened to the proper degree for marketing.

Mr. Moore planted four acres of tomatoes to be sold on the local produce market and an additional acre to be used for canning. The tomato seeds were planted in a hotbed on December 30 and the plants were allowed to grow there for seven weeks before being transferred to a cold-frame. After they had been transferred to the cold-frame they withstood a temperature of 22 degrees. In order to save them during the extremely cold weather, Mr. Moore covered them with cloth and pine needles.

BUSINESS AND INDUSTRIAL REVIEW OF TWIN CITIES

CORRECT TIMING

Chevrolet Introduces Principle Which Insures Best Results

Hairbreadth accuracy in timing motor ignition, heretofore a job for a trained expert, is made so simple that anyone can do it in a few minutes by an ingenious application of stroboscopic principles developed by Chevrolet engineers. As a result, the owner of any 1934 Chevrolet car or truck may roll it into an official service station and have his timing perfectly adjusted with even less trouble and delay than are involved in having his battery checked; in fact, without even stopping his engine. An accuracy in timing to one-half of one degree is readily obtained.

The Chevrolet arrangement is to use a polished steel ball, pressed into the rim of the flywheel, as a marker, instead of the usual faint groove, and to provide a simple and inexpensive means of making the ball clearly visible and seemingly standing still every time the spark plug of No. 1 cylinder fires, while the engine is running at idling speed.

This stroboscopic effect is obtained by using a special Neon lamp connected to the spark plug. With the engine running at 500 r.p.m. the lamp illuminates the ball for an instant 250 times a minute. If the timing is correct, the ball appears directly under the fixed pointer. If it doesn't, correction is effected by loosening the distributor clamp and rotating the unit gradually until the ball and pointer line up exactly. Locking the distributor in this position ends the operation.

Chevrolet engineers have found that the ability to time an engine while it is running brings better results than even an expert job with the engine stopped.

Ordinarily, timing is checked only during infrequent engine tune-up jobs at service stations. By simplifying the job, Chevrolet enables owners to keep their engines at maximum performance capacity by frequent timing.

A Long Island, N. Y., photographer has evolved a new method of graphically and accurately showing acceleration by means of the camera. By means of special photographic equipment, which permits successive exposures at extremely short intervals of time, the photographer is able to catch simultaneously the movement of the hands of the stop-watch and the speedometer, thus registering the speed of the car at any elapsed time.

In the view shown here the photographer has photographed the speedometer and the stop-watch at zero, before the car is put in motion. 12 seconds later the car has attained a speed of 47 miles per hour, and in 21 seconds the car has reached 75 1/2 miles per hour.

The camera man recently explained his idea to officials of the Hudson Motor Car Co., who instructed their New York distributor to place a Terraplane and driver at the disposal of the photographer for the purpose. The timer, or stop-watch, employed was the property of the photographer, and its accuracy is properly vouched for. Since the acceleration figures parallel so closely those obtained on tests by the Engineering Department at the plant, the accuracy of this method of depicting acceleration is verified.

As will be noted, the car was taken fresh from stock. The odometer dial on the instrument shows that it had only been operated a little over 89 miles. This is admittedly cruel treatment to give a new automobile, but with the duoflo oiling system employed on the Terraplane cars, a short spurt of this kind can be taken even with a new car without harm, although it is not generally recommended. The photographer caught the car at speed immediately after the test to round out his pictorial record of the interesting demonstration. At the conclusion of the trial, the photographer was more amazed at the terrific acceleration of the car than he was at the success of his experiment. "I didn't think there was a car made that could accelerate so rapidly!" he exclaimed.

The car is a stock Terraplane 6 cylinder Sedan, the exact duplicate of which is found on any Terraplane and Hudson salesroom floor. No special gears were employed, and the standard cylinder head, giving normal compression, was used.

PONTIAC EXHIBIT
ATTRACTS PRAISE

Manufacturers Of Popular Car Arrange Attractive Features

With every indication pointing to greater attendance at a Century of Progress than last year, a close inspection of the hundreds of exhibits shows that almost every exhibitor has taken even greater pains to display his wares attractively than he did last year, if such an improvement can be imagined.

In the great General Motors building, the Pontiac Motor company has retained all of its features of a year ago and has added several outstanding attractions of exceptional interest.

A comprehensive array of the newest knee-action straight eight Pontiac models again is supported by the full-sized glass-enclosed working model showing a Pontiac engine with its exclusive fountain cooling system of water circulation.

The famous mechanical talking Indian Chief that mystified so many fair visitors with its uncanny ability to converse intelligently with young and old alike is back at its old stand with all of its old-time verve and gusto. Added attractions include a costly highly finished chassis showing the action of all working parts. Of especial interest is the functioning of the "knees" in "slow-motion" rhythm, the coiled springs compressing and extending within the walls of their cut-out cylinders.

What actually happens to the working parts of a Pontiac straight eight engine after it has been driven the equivalent of three times around the world is spread out in plain sight. It is a display of a completely disassembled 1934 engine after 75,000 miles of actual service. The wear was so slight that in the case of most of the vital parts the measurement was in fractions of a thousandth of an inch.

Other special exhibits that are holding their crowds are the working life-sized model of Pontiac's sensitized self-energizing brakes and a detailed operating model of the famous knee-action independently sprung front wheels.

NEW EL CUBO IS PROVING POPULAR

Phil D. Mayer And Son Introduces New And Milder Product

Reports coming into the office of Phil D. Mayer & Son, manufacturers of El Cubo "Cream of Quality" cigars, show that the new mild El Cubo is winning favor everywhere. Sometime ago the makers of El Cubo installed a new and improved method for double curing the same fine tobaccos always used. And without saying a word about it to the trade the new mild El Cubo was put into the stores.

The response was immediate, many smokers telling their cigar dealers how much they now liked the cigar—complimenting the new and pleasing mildness which made the rich Havana flavor so enjoyable. Some smokers are even taking the trouble to call up the factory to express their appreciation.

All of this is very gratifying to the El Cubo manufacturers who feel that no trouble or expense is too great when the extra investment and time required produces a product that meets the exact taste of their customers. The new mild El Cubo is now in practically every cigar store in this territory and further distribution is extending as fast as factory production permits.

Retailers who have not yet stocked the new mild El Cubo are advised to get in touch with their jobber immediately. Local jobbers stocks are complete and they are most anxious to give their dealers prompt service on the new mild El Cubo "Cream of Quality" cigar.

JONESBORO MEN HURT IN WRECK

Several Are Injured As Truck Crashes Into Railroad Sign

JONESBORO, La., May 26.—(Special)—A number of local citizens today were recovering from injuries sustained Thursday when the truck in which they were riding crashed into a railroad stop sign near the city limits of Winfield. The most seriously injured are Jack Houston and D. Caldwell, both of whom received severe cuts and bruises. Others who received minor cuts and bruises were Mike Kelly, Erin Watson and Jeff McDonald.

Those injured were members of a party of local Masons and Eastern Star members who were en route in the truck to Alexandria to attend a Masonic conclave.

The accident occurred when the truck was about to cross the railroad tracks. John Warren, the driver, failing to see an approaching train, it was said, until the truck was about to cross the tracks, jammed on the brakes, causing the heavily-loaded vehicle to swerve into the sign post.

The injured men were given first aid treatment by doctors and nurses before being brought to their homes here in ambulances.

BERNSTEIN FLAYS POLICE MEASURE

Mayor Opposes Bill To Create State Law Enforcement Body

Describing the measure as a flagrant effort to usurp municipal and parochial powers, Mayor Arnold Bernstein Saturday denounced the bill before the present session of the legislature proposing the establishment of a state police force. The mayor said the proposed measure would create a state police force and empower it to supersede municipal and parochial law enforcement officers at its discretion.

In discussing the bill in an informal way at the city hall, the mayor said he had been informed by W. C. Feazel and J. Porter Burgess, Ouachita parish representatives, that they were opposed to the legislation. The mayor expressed the opinion that the bill was a thrust by the administration at such a demonstration against Senator Huey P. Long as occurred in Monroe and Alexandria several months ago, when he was on a speaking tour in behalf of the state administration's tax program.

In Monroe, two men who questioned Senator Long during the course of his address were ejected from the hall where the meeting was held. Rotten eggs and over-ripe fruit were hurled at the senator in Alexandria.

One of the Monroe men, E. M. Steen, was saved from manhandling at the hands of state highway officers by State Senator James A. Noe of this city, an administration partisan. The senator escorted Mr. Steen from the hall. The other questioner, D. M. Doughty, left the hall under the protection of L. V. Tarver, superintendent of Monroe police, who went to Mr. Doughty's rescue when he was set upon by the highway officers, most of whom were in plain clothes.

In an address before the Monroe Rotary club the past week, Mayor T. Semmes Wamsley of New Orleans roundly criticized the state police measure. He said the New Orleans delegation in the legislature would fight to the last ditch to prevent the assumption by the state of local police powers.

SOLID COMFORT

The best is not good enough. That is why I am always trying to do better than the best. A set of teeth that does not fit, isn't worth a dime. Ugly bridge work is worth less. There isn't a dentist that can do any kind of dental work better than I can and none that uses finer material. I am asking you to use good common sense. Be your own judge. I save you money, use the very best material. Guarantee every piece of work to give satisfaction because I make them here. And they must be right. An inspection of my office and work will be appreciated.

The mayor said the proposed measure would create a state police force and empower it to supersede municipal and parochial law enforcement officers at its discretion.

In discussing the bill in an informal way at the city hall, the mayor said he had been informed by W. C. Feazel and J. Porter Burgess, Ouachita parish representatives, that they were opposed to the legislation.

The mayor expressed the opinion that the bill was a thrust by the administration at such a demonstration against Senator Huey P. Long as occurred in Monroe and Alexandria several months ago, when he was on a speaking tour in behalf of the state administration's tax program.

In Monroe, two men who questioned Senator Long during the course of his address were ejected from the hall where the meeting was held. Rotten eggs and over-ripe fruit were hurled at the senator in Alexandria.

One of the Monroe men, E. M. Steen, was saved from manhandling at the hands of state highway officers by State Senator James A. Noe of this city, an administration partisan. The senator escorted Mr. Steen from the hall. The other questioner, D. M. Doughty, left the hall under the protection of L. V. Tarver, superintendent of Monroe police, who went to Mr. Doughty's rescue when he was set upon by the highway officers, most of whom were in plain clothes.

In an address before the Monroe Rotary club the past week, Mayor T. Semmes Walmsley of New Orleans roundly criticized the state police measure. He said the New Orleans delegation in the legislature would fight to the last ditch to prevent the assumption by the state of local police powers.

THEY DIDN'T KNOW NANCY

By Ruth Burr Sanborn

NANCY LYNDON sat on the back stairs and shook with pure, unmitigated rage. She flung the silver half-dollar from her as hard as she could, and it crashed through the glass in the door at the bottom of the stairs and vanished into the shrubbery.

"Please," said Nancy furiously to herself. "Please, please, please, please! All my life I've tried to please somebody, and this is what I get for it. Fifty cents!"

She sprang to her feet and raced up the stairs. Aunt Laetitia was floating along the hall. "What was that breaking?" she asked in her sweet, fretful voice. "Nothing but my heart," said Nancy lightly.

It was to be a great occasion. Derk Ranier was coming to dinner. Anyone who knew Derk Ranier—and people in more important places than Oldport knew who Derk Ranier was—would have understood what that meant.

Derk Ranier was stopping off in Oldport to visit his grandparents midway between a trip to Burma after rubies and a trip to Siam after sapphires—or something like that. Derk was field man for one of the great jewelers in New York, and he had been everywhere: Ceylon and Colombia and Peru and Java and the Andaman Islands—remote places still, Walgett and Chantabon, and names you couldn't pronounce—wherever news came from of a jewel strange and rare. He had traveled through the jungle to the Pailin District above Bangkok, and found a star sapphire in the hand of an unknown dead man. Romantic things like that, thrilling and terrible. Nancy Lyndon had heard these things, of course. But it was Elaine who met Derk Ranier.

Nancy had gone to the train as usual to bring her father home from the 5:13. That night Elaine went with her. Old Mrs. Ranier and Mrs. Ranier were there too. Elaine went to talk to them while they waited. She looked very pretty in her pale blue suit.

"It must be rather an undertaking to entertain him," she murmured. "That is true," Old Mrs. Ranier admitted, austere troubled.

"If there's anything we can do..." "That's very kind of you, my dear," said Old Mrs. Ranier, relaxing a little. Elaine always looked so sweet and helpful.

"Perhaps it may be that I shall call upon you. We know so few young people..." "Perhaps a little dinner party..." "Quite charming of you, really," said Old Mrs. Ranier. "Your father coming, you say? Must you go? If you could wait a moment..."

So that was how Elaine met Derk Ranier.

"HE HAS a beautifully shaped head, hasn't he?" said Elaine dreamily, leaning back at ease while Nancy drove.

"Has he?" said Nancy. "I didn't notice. It must have been because he had his hat on."

"Of course," said Elaine, in the delicately reproving tone of one who instructs the ignorant, "he took his hat off." She added: "He's coming Friday night."

"What for?" said Nancy. "For dinner," said Elaine. "Before the club dance."

Nancy spent a great deal of thought on that dinner. It was hard to arrange a meal that wasn't queer to please seven people. Nancy ought to be able to do it though, by this time. She'd had experience.

Nancy had had a lot of experience in pleasing people since her mother died. Mrs. Lyndon had been a dear, sweet, good, kind woman, but she had let her family grow accustomed to being pleased. Then she had died when Benny was born—and left Nancy to please them.

Nancy stood in front of the mirror, that night before Derk Ranier came—and was rather pleased herself. She had not been able to afford a new dress; the one she had borrowed from Elaine was black, and black was not her best color. But she had bound it with a bright girle and fastened a rose at her shoulder, and the effect was good. The red brought out the full rich color of her mouth, with its luscious lift and turn, the flush in her cheeks, the brightness of her eyes. Nancy had never been able to decide what color her eyes were. Sometimes she thought they were blue, and sometimes green; sometimes when she was excited they looked black. They looked black now.

ELAINE did not want to be in the living-room when Derk Ranier arrived; she wanted to make an entrance. Elaine looked very pretty, tall and fair, in sapphire-blue chiffon, with the close gold cap of her hair and her blue eyes shining like stars.

Scrutinizing the table Elaine said, "You're not going to let that child sit down, are you?" "Why not?" said Nancy. "He has to eat somewhere."

"He can eat upstairs." "I'll have a tantrum," remarked Benny, appearing beside them.

"I suppose I might ask Larry to come over," Nancy said slowly. "It's too late to get anybody else..."

"And have him wear a red necktie and talk about real estate. He's so uncouth."

"That's hardly fair," Nancy flushed in quick defense of Larry. Elaine's blue eye flashed. "It's hardly fair to spoil my party, either, after all the trouble I've taken."

"I will have a tantrum," threatened Benny ominously.

THE bell rang. Derk Ranier. Nancy trod sharply on the buzzer to remind Mary to answer the door, and made a dive for Benny.

"He can't have a tantrum now!" cried Elaine.

"I can so," roared Benny. Nancy's fingers cut his scream off short.

"You'll simply have to keep him quiet," Elaine said urgently. "You won't mind, will you?"

Nancy did not quite understand at first. "Mind what?"

"Staying upstairs with him," said Elaine.

MARY was showing Derk Ranier into the living-room. Aunt Laetitia was bidding him welcome. "Thanks," said Elaine, very offhand. "Of course we want things right." She stood for an instant in the doorway. Then she made her entrance.

Nancy stopped in the kitchen, with Benny kicking in her arms, to tell Mary to take off two places.

After Benny had had his supper she told him two stories; then put him to bed, and crept out to the landing. The members of the party were getting ready for the dance. Caroline was with Elaine in her room; the men were in George's.

Mrs. Lyndon stumped upstairs on his way to a pipe and the evening paper. He made a growling noise when he saw Nancy. "Why didn't you have bean soup?" he demanded.

Aunt Laetitia was right behind him, sniffing into lace handkerchief. "Why you should have drawn butter on the asparagus, when you know I like hollandaise..."

Nancy stood stock-still, the blood pounding in her ears. These were the thanks she got. Derk Ranier was coming out of George's room; she simply couldn't meet him now. She ducked quickly down the stairs.

The Lyndon stairs divided at the landing, and half a flight led to the front hall, and half a flight to a side entrance and a door into the kitchen. Nancy skirted round the corner, and sat down midway of the back section. She would have been safe from observation if Derk Ranier had not mistaken his way at the landing and turned in her direction. He pulled himself up short almost on top of her.

"Sorry," he said. "I didn't see you."

"You weren't supposed to," said Nancy. "I'm hiding."

Derk Ranier bent over her. She saw his look change a little—it was hard to say just how. A certain stiffness, like formality, went out of it, and left a gentle teasing. "I'm good at finding hidden things," he said. "The bushmen of Australia have a saying that the rarest gems are found in the darkest places." He put his fingers under her chin and tilted back her head. "Can you go out later?"

A little current of excitement swept over Nancy. He had been looking for her then. He had come this way on purpose. He wanted her to be at the dance.

"Have a good time," said Derk Ranier. He bent quickly and touched her hand. "Go to the movies or something..."

Elaine's light footsteps sounded overhead. He sprang up the stairs to the landing, and down the stairs to the hall.

Nancy looked down at the hand Derk Ranier had touched. There was a silver half-dollar in it. Derk Ranier thought she was a nursemaid. He had given her a tip...

Nancy Lyndon found herself shaking with pure, unmitigated rage. She sent the half-dollar crashing through the glass door. She brushed past Aunt Laetitia in the hall. She rushed into her own room and slammed the door behind her. "All my life," she stormed, "I've tried to please somebody. And this is what I get for it. Now I'm going to please myself."

FOR the first time in years, Nancy Lyndon did not get up the next morning to poach her father's egg in milk and squeeze Aunt Laetitia's orange juice and make Elaine's crisp, buttered toast and find where George had left his hat and play a game with Benny's cereal. She lay with her hands clasped under her head, one foot cocked on a knee, and admired a slim gold leg in peach-colored crepe de Chine.

Downstairs there was an assortment of noises. A sound of altercation—that would be her father not liking his egg—ending in a breaking plate; something tipped over in the hall—George not finding his hat. Aunt Laetitia sent her orange juice back and said there was a seed in it. Benny, Nancy judged, was having a tantrum. The slamming of the front door shook the house—her father going for a street car. Mary knocked at Nancy's door and walked right in.

"I'm leaving," she announced. "I don't blame you," agreed Nancy.

When Mary had gone, Nancy pulled a rubber cap over her curls and poured Elaine's best bath salts into a deep, warm tub. She was paddling luxuriously when Elaine came rattling the door.

"I'm in a tearing hurry," she said. "Derk and I are going to Kittering Beach, and I haven't a decent rag. I'll have to rush if I go in town to buy something. We're going to have an early lunch and start right afterward and take a picnic supper and watch the moon rise. What was the matter with the coffee?"

"How do I know?" said Nancy. "He Derk comes before I get back, tell him I'll be right down."

"All right," said Nancy. "Oh—and put us up a lunch. I think Derk would like those open-faced round sandwiches with the pimiento crossed on top."

"Would he?" said Nancy. "We're going to take our car, because the Raniers are using theirs. Don't go off anywhere with it."

"I won't," Nancy promised.

Nancy had a busy morning after Elaine left. She spent some time in the kitchen, and some time in the garage, and some time at the telephone—Caroline and Mrs. Henderson and Larry—and she spent quite a lot of time at the lower end of the garden with a spade and a can of pimientos. Then she went to get dressed. She chose a straight white linen, demure as all get-out, and buttoned it severely down her stomach. She sat in the living room, with her white shoes crossed before her, and practiced looking demure. "If Derk Ranier doesn't come before Elaine does," she mused, "I'll have to do something."

Derk Ranier, however, solved her difficulty by telephoning. Would she please tell Miss Lyndon that he should have to be a trifle late? He had no swimming suit, and found he could not buy one there. He'd have to go to the city...

She let him ring twice. Then she trailed down, with George's swimming trunks dangling from her fingers, and flung the door wide open. "Hello," she said. "Come on in and try them up to you. If they're too big, I can take a tuck."

Derk Ranier stepped in hastily. "Where?" he began again.

"She's coming," said Nancy. "I was going to say," finished Derk Ranier stubbornly, "where have I seen you before? It wasn't it on the back stairs?"

She perceived that in her plain, white dress buttoned so severely down the stomach, her plain, white shoes, her answering of telephone and door, Derk Ranier still took her for a servant. She had meant to tell him at once the joke about who she was. But now she perceived how much richer and rarer the joke would be if she were to let it go on a little—say, until Elaine came. She widened her eyes still farther. "Oh," she said. "You're the kind gentleman who gave me fifty cents."

Nancy sat in a big chair and curled one foot under her. Derk Ranier was obviously embarrassed. He kept looking toward the door. "I don't want to get you into any trouble..."

"Oh, they won't fire me," said Nancy casually. "If that's what you mean, they couldn't get anyone else to do half so much."

"A girl like you," muttered Derk, "shouldn't have to do anything."

"Miss Lyndon said," remarked Nancy, "that you could read till she came."

"What would I read for?" demanded Derk.

"To improve your mind."

"I'd rather," said Derk Ranier, "improve my opportunity."

They had turned on the radio and were dancing when Elaine came. Nancy stiffened a little in Derk's arms, and Derk swung about and saw Elaine also.

Derk Ranier stopped dead. He drew himself up sharply.

"I'm sorry," he said quickly. "It is all my fault. I hope you will not blame my little maid."

Elaine stood still in the doorway and looked from Derk to Nancy, taking in the situation. "Don't think of it again," she said coolly. "One is informal, you understand, in these small towns. Nancy is quite one of the family."

Nancy stood stunned—for an instant unbelieving. Then all the hurt and pride and anger of a thousand petty injustices flared up and took possession of her. Nancy had not been quite sure before that she really meant to do it. But she was sure now.

"Are you ready, Derk?" said Elaine sweetly.

"No, he isn't," said Nancy with finality. "I've got to take a tuck in his trousers."

IT WAS simply amazing after that how many things happened to prevent their getting off. Of course you could not really blame Nancy. No one could have been more helpful.

But at last they were ready. They were actually in the car. Derk Ranier called goodbye, and "Have a good time," said Derk Ranier. "Go to the movies or something."

"I'm in a tearing hurry," she said. "Derk and I are going to Kittering Beach, and I haven't a decent rag. I'll have to rush if I go in town to buy something. We're going to have an early lunch and start right afterward and take a picnic supper and watch the moon rise. What was the matter with the coffee?"

"How do I know?" said Nancy. "He Derk comes before I get back, tell him I'll be right down."

"All right," said Nancy. "Oh—and put us up a lunch. I think Derk would like those open-faced round sandwiches with the pimiento crossed on top."

"I won't," Nancy promised.

Nancy had a busy morning after Elaine left. She spent some time in the kitchen, and some time in the garage, and some time at the telephone—Caroline and Mrs. Henderson and Larry—and she spent quite a lot of time at the lower end of the garden with a spade and a can of pimientos. Then she went to get dressed. She chose a straight white linen, demure as all get-out, and buttoned it severely down her stomach. She sat in the living room, with her white shoes crossed before her, and practiced looking demure. "If Derk Ranier doesn't come before Elaine does," she mused, "I'll have to do something."

Derk Ranier, however, solved her difficulty by telephoning. Would she please tell Miss Lyndon that he should have to be a trifle late? He had no swimming suit, and found he could not buy one there. He'd have to go to the city...

She let him ring twice. Then she trailed down, with George's swimming trunks dangling from her fingers, and flung the door wide open. "Hello," she said. "Come on in and try them up to you. If they're too big, I can take a tuck."

Nancy stood stunned—for an instant unbelieving. Then all the

the top. She set it down in the midst of a very large silence.

Larry, with commendable promptness, succeeded in holding Elaine's chair. Derk held Nancy's—there was nothing else to do.

"Where," said Aunt Laetitia austere, "are the vegetables?"

"In the soup," said Nancy, more brightly than she felt.

"Benny, pass the crackers."

"Ice cream," remarked Benny. "Ice milk," Nancy corrected. "I'll have a tantrum," said Benny.

"Do," said Nancy. "I'm just in the mood for it."

Apparently everyone else was in the mood for it too. Mr. Lyndon was beginning to talk about tolling and molling; Aunt Laetitia was getting ready to shed tears into the cream pitcher. Caroline pouted, and George scowled, and Elaine...

SUDDENLY Nancy was rather sorry for them. She was angry at herself. She must do something... quick.

The tears pricked behind Nancy's lashes, and her fingers under the table edge twisted her napkin in a knot. Derk was so near to her—and he was so far away. But when she turned to him she was laughing. The comical little pucker came over the top of her nose.

"When Benny has tantrums," she said, "he sits on the floor and kicks and screams. What do they do when they have tantrums in darkest Africa?"

Derk Ranier looked at Nancy. There was color in her cheeks from the heat of the stove, and her curls were on end. "They beat the drums," he said. "And then they go out in the jungle and catch a lion to make lion stew."

Elaine pushed her bowl away. "Revolt," she murmured. "I think it's good," said Derk Ranier, putting in a big spoonful of his soup. Mr. Lyndon laughed.

Presently, as if that were a signal, everyone was laughing—everyone, that is, but Elaine.

THEY DIDN'T KNOW NANCY

"Queer," Nancy said. "It never acted like that before."

Derk Ranier worked on the car for an hour. Then they called the garage. The garage man said it was the strangest case he had ever known; every other thing, he said, was missing.

By this time the afternoon was over. It became evident that Derk and Elaine would have to stay for dinner.

"Won't it make a lot of bother?" Derk asked.

"Oh, no," said Nancy. "I'll just open another can and put another cup of water in the soup." She pretended not to see the look that Elaine gave her.

"How long before dinner?" Elaine asked.

"Ten minutes," said Nancy mealy.

"I must hurry," said Elaine, drifting languidly toward the stairs.

Derk came when Elaine had gone and asked if he could help. "Sure," Nancy said. "You can set the table." She saw him hesitating over places. "Put one on for me. I generally sit down—just like one of the family."

She hurried off to speak to Larry about his tie: "Just the shade I meant..."

"It won't do any good," said Larry gloomily.

"Probably not," said Nancy. "Most things don't. Tell her she looks like a jewel..."

ELAINE was late, of course. When she came at last it was slowly, with a very conscious grace. She was in yellow this time—pale yellow to match her hair—poured close about every supple line. "Topaz," Nancy telegraphed to Larry. Elaine swept into the dining-room like a queen approaching the royal board.

There were no place cards tonight; Nancy pointed out the seats with a slim, brown finger. In the center of the table was a plate of toasted crackers; an empty bowl stood at each plate. Nancy brought in a great smoking soup tureen, with a mammoth silver ladle sticking out

"It was a strange stone," said Derk. There was a hushed note, of wonder, in his voice. "I found it in the Sulaimans above Kandahar, and no one ever found another like it. It was blue and it wasn't blue. It was green and it wasn't green. Sometimes it was black. It was gay, and unexpected, and exciting... like you."

SUDDENLY he was drawing her to him. His hands were hard about her wrists. There was a queer look in his face, a rejoicing look, as if he had found a jewel he had sought for a long time. His eyes were strained and eager as his lips came down toward hers.

Suddenly Nancy was wildly angry—because she liked him so much. She wrenched fiercely at her hands. "You let me alone," she cried furiously. "You think I'm just the maid, and I'll be pleased and flattered. You think you can do anything, and get away with it. Well, you can't. Did you dare to kiss Elaine, in there alone? Tell me that. Did you?"

He still held her, but without drawing her any nearer. "Elaine?" he said. "Why, no. Why should I? I—I couldn't ever love Elaine."

"Love?" repeated Nancy softly.

The door burst open and Benny came tearing in. "Oh, look-it, Sister," he cried. "Look-it what I found. It's half a dollar. It was right out in the bushes, by the side door..."

"Keep it," said Nancy. "It's a tip."

Benny rushed away again, shrieking for the young Hendersons.

"Love?" repeated Nancy. She really pulled her hands free this time. She pulled them free so she could reach them up to Derk's shoulders.

Derk was shaking her. "You little minx," he was saying. "What do you suppose I care who you are? What if she is your sister? Do you suppose I mind? What do you suppose I spent half the afternoon for, fixing the car so it wouldn't go? What? ... Nancy! Nancy Lyndon! Will you please hold still while I kiss you?"

Nancy Lyndon held still—just to please Derk Ranier.

Threaten Every Child!

Most mothers believe their children quite safe from Round-Worms. Yet as many as 50 out of every 100 children had worms, said U. S. Government experts who examined over 2,000 children in various schools. There is no sure way to guard your child. Not only fruits and vegetables, but flies, water, pets and playgrounds are sources of infection. Prevention is almost impossible.

If your little ones are delicate, sickly, losing weight, slow in school, if they sleep badly, pick their noses, itch, digest and won't eat—don't scold or force them to eat. Their tiny stomachs are likely being sapped, their growth stunted and minds dulled by these unseen worms, which multiply with amazing speed.

JAYNE'S VERMIFUGE

The child should begin to gain weight, strength and vigor as soon as the worms are gone. Millions of mothers are grateful for this remedy, a doctor's prescription famous for 104 years. 36 million bottles have been used by wise, careful mothers to bring up strong, happy, healthy, tiny youngsters. Jayne's famous Vermifuge and Tonics can be had at any drug store.
